Bronze Star Presented

Slain Marine Honored

A Bronze Star Medal was presented this morning by Marine Capt. W. F. Hurley to Mr. and Mrs. George Bennett of LaCroft Ave. for their son, Sgt. Arthur W. Smith, who died May 8 of wounds suffered in combat in Vietnam.

Capt. Hurley, inspector-instructor from the Marine Corps Reserve Training Center at Steubenville, made the posthumous presentation on behalf of Lt. Gen. H. W. Buse, commanding general of the Fleet Marine Force, Pacific.

Sgt. Smith was a platoon sergeant with Co. D, 1st Battalion, 27th Regiment, 1st Marine Division, when he was wounded May 5 near Hue.

The citation reads in part:

"During the early morning hours of 5 May 1968, Co. D was occupying a defensive perimeter east of Hue City when the Marines came under a heavy enemy mortar, rocket and grenade attack and received intense automatic weapons and small arms fire.

"Ignoring the hostile fire, Sgt. Smith left his relatively safe position in the command post and volunteered to accompany reinforcements to relieve a squad which had sustained numerous casualties. Advancing through the hostile fire, he skillfully administered emergency first-aid treatment to wounded Marines and delivered a heavy volume of suppressive fire.

"Although wounded by small arms fire and an exploding hand grenade, Sgt. Smith continued to fire his weapon and aid the wounded until he was medically evacuated. His courageous actions and steadfast determination inspired all who observed him and were instrumental in repulsing the North Vietnamese Army force.

"Sgt. Smith's courage, aggressive fighting spirit and selfless devotion to duty in the face of intense hostile fire were in keeping with the highest traditions of the Marine Corps and the United States Naval Service."

Reds Shell U.S. Base In Saigon Area

Send Infantry In To Test Defense; Leaving 13 Killed

SAIGON (AP) — Enemy forces slammed more than 100 rounds of mortar shells into a U.S. base protecting Saigon's northwestern flank today, then sent a platoon of infantrymen firing into it in an apparent effort to test the American defenses.

The enemy troops pulled back after an hour of fighting, leaving 13 dead on the battlefield 14 miles northwest of Saigon. Four Americans were reported wounded.

Earlier, South Vietnamese infantrymen reported killing 22 enemy soldiers a mile away from the American base. The government soldiers also seized a 75mm recoilless cannon, a bazooka rocket launcher, two assault rifles and a quantity of mines and ammunition. No government casualties were reported.

Fighting hit its lowest level in a week, and U.S. officers said that enemy is scaling down his efforts in some areas.

Allied troops continued to uncover huge weapons and food stockpiles, adding to the more than 100 tons of supplies they seized from the enemy last month. These seizures apparently either delayed or canceled planned enemy attacks.

In the air war, headquarters announced the loss of the fourth American plane over North Vietnam in the past five days, raising the toll to 903 in more than 3½ years of bombing.

A Navy A6 Skyhawk from the 7th Fleet carrier Hancock was downed Wednesday by ground fire two miles below the 19th Parallel bombing limitation for American pilots.

The Navy said the pilot bailed out over the Tonkin Gulf seconds before the jet exploded but that a rescue helicopter found only the parachute and a rubber

Ex-Governor Has Desire To Serve U.S., LeMay Says

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Retired Air Force Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, who wants victory in Vietnam even if it takes nuclear weapons, was made George C. Wallace's vice presidential candidate today.

"One of his outstanding characteristics that I admire greatly is his ability to speak his mind," said the former Alabama governor as he introduced LeMay to a full dress news conference.

"Gen. LeMay is a man of peace," Wallace said. "He had dedicated his career to the defense and protection of his nation.

LeMay, so tough he won the nickname "Old Ironpants" in both theaters of war in World War II, said Wallace has "proven to me that his every action is predicated on a desire to serve the United States of America. In fact, he is the only candidate who had been talking like an American . . ."

"He is the only one who has spoken forthrightly on the issues and has expressed a willingness to take the necessary steps to win the war in Vietnam with honorable conditions," LeMay said.

"Some of my friends are surprised at my being here today," LeMay went on. "I am somewhat surprised myself."

"When Gov. Wallace first asked me to join him as his vice presidential nominee, I declined.

"I reflected on my decision and it occurred to me that my response to Gov. Wallace in his fight had been the same as the response I had received from some of those I had talked to about the matter of Vietnam.

LeMay said, of Wallace's campaign, "This is a peoples movement that will culiminate in a great victory on Nov. 5."

LeMay, the heavy-jowled, 61-year-old former Air Force chief of staff who usually has a cigar grippd between his teeth, was once reticent about speaking in public. "If you talk all the time," he said, "you don't learn anything."

Snipers, Troops Clash In Bloody Battle

20 Killed And 75 Wounded In Mexican Student Revolt

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The bloodiest battle yet of Mexico City's student rebellion raged through the night after a rifle shot touched off a thunderous crossfire between snipers and army troops at the crowded site of an antigovernment rally Wednesday.

Police and hospitals reported 25 persons killed, although at 1 a.m. a spokesman said the government's estimate was that 20 persons were killed and 75 wounded.

Estimates of those on the scene were that more than 100 were wounded and a check of three of Mexico City's hospitals showed 72 injured had been treated.

The International Olympic Committee called a meeting today to discuss the violence and its possible effect on the 1968 summer games, scheduled to open in the Mexican capital in nine days.

The government spokesman, presidential press secretary Fernando Garza, said of the Olympics: "There is no danger. All necessary precautions have been taken."

He said the fighting began when "one group of students began firing at another." He added: The end has come to this group of militant students. A cleaning out has been made already."

Firing in the area of the Plaza of the Three Cultures near downtown continued sporadically into the early morning hours. Soldiers said the main pockets of student resistance were two buildings in the adjoining Tlatelolco apartment district.

An editor for the newspaper El Universal said his reporters told him of soldiers finding 20 bodies in upper stories of the Social Security Hospital, where snipers had been seen firing.

Gen. Marcelino Garcia Barragan, the defense secretary, said he had orders to crush the student uprising at any cost.

One newsman said hundreds of persons were lying in the plaza after the first volley of gunfire.

Throughout the evening, snipers with automatic weapons fired from apartment windows and troops brought armored cars into the battle and poured machine-gun fire back into the high-rise buildings. The troops began clearing out the buildings about four hours after the battle began. Hundreds of residents already had fled.

Rusk Confers With Gromyko

Reds' Mideast Peace Plan Seen In Line With Arabs

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — It was the turn of Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko before the U.N. General Assembly today. He had the chance to answer Secretary of State Dean Rusk's bid to the Kremlin to pull its troops out of Czechoslovakia.

Gromyko was on the list to speak in the 125-nation assembly's general debate, devoted to policy statements of foreign ministers attending this 23rd session.

Rusk and Gromyko met Thursday night and had an inconclusive, half-hour talk on the Middle East conflict. U.S. officials said afterward the Soviet Union's plan for peace in the Middle East was in line with the Arab position.

Gromyko listened to Rusk as the general debate opened Wednesday, sitting impassively through the 37-minute speech. Under the rules he could have replied almost immediately. But he chose to reserve his reply until he came to his turn in the debate.

Rusk charged that in invading Czechoslovakia, the Soviet Union "brushed aside" the U.N. charter's restraint on "the historical tendency of great nations to abuse the rights of smaller nations" and aroused "apprehension concerning Soviet purpose."

"When," he asked, "will the Soviet Union, whose international relations are subject to the United Nations charter, make good on its own repeated promise by removing occupying forces from Czechoslovakia?"

He rejected the Soviet Union's argument that the charter empowers it to intervene by force unilaterally in West Germany.

He warned that "any such action would lead immediately to self-defense measures under the North Atlantic Treaty" and that the United States would "not tolerate the threat or use of force against West Berlin."

Rusk restated the U.S. position on Vietnam and offered to stop the bombing of North Vietnam "the minute we can be confident that this would lead toward peace."

He said "all of us should encourage the parties to move resolutely toward a settlement" in the Middle East through Gunnar V. Jarring of Sweden, U.N. special envoy to that area.

He also restated the U.S. position in favor of various measures of arms control.

Bettis Raps Parole Move For Slayer

LISBON — County Prosecutor Warren Bettis has filed a complaint with the Ohio Parole Commission concerning an action authorizing a commutation of life sentences of an Irondale man convicted of a double murder in East Liverpool 22 years ago.

Bettis criticized the commission in connection with the case of Erwin Emerson Brown, 61, convicted on two counts of first degree murder in the pistol slayings of his wife, Beulah, and Brade Fetty in a residence in Short Alley Dec. 14, 1946.

Bettis has written a letter to the parole commission asking why he and Common Pleas Court were not consulted before the action clearing the way for commutation of the life sentences by Gov. James Rhodes last month. The move permits possible parole for Brown.

"In the interest of justice for all persons, including citizens who obey the law, we should have been consulted before this decision was made," Bettis declared.

The Governor's action came after a five-to-two vote on the proposal.

"It is apparently useless to cooperate with your agency," he went on. "Anyway, it is apparent your interest is getting prisoners out onto the streets with little concern for the rights of the individual citizen, his property, his life and his family who obey the law day in and day out."

Idle Placed At 43,000 In Coal Strikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Contract negotiators concentrated on fringe benefits today, while soft coal miners resisted the prodding of union officials trying to curb scattered wildcat strikes which have idled nearly 43,000 men.

Reports from bargaining between the United Mine Workers and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association Wednesday said the two sides reached agreement on a wage hike of more than $1 a day for a new two-year contract.

But despite Wednesday's report of progress, strikes mushroomed in the coal fields of five states, where about 30,000 men had been on strike Tuesday.

The latest tabulation showed 21,200 out in West Virginia, 7,500 in Pennsylvania, 6,800 in Ohio, 4,000 in Kentucky and 3,200 in Illinois.

A further indication of progress in the talks, racing a midnight Tuesday deadline, came from Harvey Younker of Ebensburg, Pa., a member of the 125-man Wage Policy Committee which must approve any proposed contract.

Guardsmen And Reservists

Air Force Will Release 16,000 From Active Duty

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force will release about 16,000 Air National Guardsmen and reservists from active duty by next summer. But the Army says it still needs the 20,000 men it called up to support the Vietnam War.

Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford announced Wednesday night that some Air Guard and reserve units and individuals will be released before January, the remainder in April, May and June.

However, Clifford warned the plans "could be changed, of course, if unforeseen circumstances arise."

He did not spell out what those circumstances might be but he obviously meant some new crisis at least as grave as the North Korean capture of the U.S. spy ship Pueblo and last winter's enemy offensive in South Vietnam.

Those developments resulted in a two-stage muster of some 38,000 Air Force, Navy and Army reservists and Guardsmen in late January and Mid-May. They were subject to up to two years in uniform.

By releasing the 16,127 Air Guardsmen and reservists gradually over the next nine months, the Air Force said it will be able to replace demobilized pilots and navigators from its training program and by what it calls "personnel management."

Among those to be released is Airman 1C Patrick J. Nugent, son-in-law of President Johnson.

New Soviet, Czech Talks Are Launched

MOSCOW (AP) — Czechoslovak Communist party chief Alexander Dubcek and Premier Oldrich Cernik came to Moscow today for negotiation with Soviet leaders who six weeks ago sent troops into their liberalized country.

Dubcek was reported to be seeking withdrawal of at least some of the Communist Bloc troops sent into Czechoslovakia on Aug. 20.

In addition to Cernik, Dubcek was accompanied by Gustav Husak, deputy premier and head of the Slovak Communist party.

The airport where Dubcek's airliner landed was closed to Western correspondents. However, informed Communist sources reported that the Czechoslovak delegation was met by the top three men of the Kremlin—Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev, President Nikolai V. Podgorny and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

Dubcek and his party were seen off from Prague by Czechoslovak President Ludvik Svoboda and other top figures in the nation's reform-minded government and Communist party.

Jail Condition Cited As Man Asks Release

Gary Ice, 22, of Ravine St., sentenced to a 60-day term Sept. 25 on charges of assault on a police officer and resisting arrest, filed a motion in Municipal Court Wednesday through his counsel asking release from City Jail on grounds the conditions there are "deplorable."

Judge Samuel M. Chertoff said today he has not set a hearing on the motion to listen to arguments from Ice's counsel, Ben H. Berman and Robert L. Simpson. He said he is prepared to rule "within five minutes," but added Ice's attorneys will be given an opportunity to argue the motion, if they wish.

Ice was sentenced to concurrent terms of 30 days and 60 days, respectively, on charges of assaulting Patrolman Ronald Brookes and resisting arrest. He also was fined $25 and costs on an intoxication charge. Since all the charges were brought under city ordinances, the sentences must be served in the city jail.

The motion filed on behalf of Ice contends that the jail lacks facilities for proper care of prisoners. It asserts there are no shower facilities and no bedding or mattresses and the conditions are "generally insanitary."

The motion also contends that the jail lacks proper heat and

Cloudy, Windy, Rain; That's The Picture

The forecast calls for mostly cloudy, windy and cooler with scattered showers today, tonight and Friday.

New Soviet, Czech Talks Are Launched

MOSCOW (AP) — Czechoslovak Communist party chief Alexander Dubcek and Premier Oldrich Cernik came to Moscow today for negotiation with Soviet leaders who six weeks ago sent troops into their liberalized country.

Dubcek was reported to be seeking withdrawal of at least some of the Communist Bloc troops sent into Czechoslovakia on Aug. 20.

In addition to Cernik, Dubcek was accompanied by Gustav Husak, deputy premier and head of the Slovak Communist party.

The airport where Dubcek's airliner landed was closed to Western correspondents. However, informed Communist sources reported that the Czechoslovak delegation was met by the top three men of the Kremlin—Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev, President Nikolai V. Podgorny and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

Dubcek and his party were seen off from Prague by Czechoslovak President Ludvik Svoboda and other top figures in the nation's reform-minded government and Communist party.

Jail Condition Cited As Man Asks Release

Gary Ice, 22, of Ravine St., sentenced to a 60-day term Sept. 25 on charges of assault on a police officer and resisting arrest, filed a motion in Municipal Court Wednesday through his counsel asking release from City Jail on grounds the conditions there are "deplorable."

Judge Samuel M. Chertoff said today he has not set a hearing on the motion to listen to arguments from Ice's counsel, Ben H. Berman and Robert L. Simpson. He said he is prepared to rule "within five minutes," but added Ice's attorneys will be given an opportunity to argue the motion, if they wish.

Ice was sentenced to concurrent terms of 30 days and 60 days, respectively, on charges of assaulting Patrolman Ronald Brookes and resisting arrest. He also was fined $25 and costs on an intoxication charge. Since all the charges were brought under city ordinances, the sentences must be served in the city jail.

The motion filed on behalf of Ice contends that the jail lacks facilities for proper care of prisoners. It asserts there are no shower facilities and no bedding or mattresses and the conditions are "generally insanitary."

The motion also contends that the jail lacks proper heat and

Midland Area News

Mrs. Gil Liberatore 643-1130

Plans for the installation Oct. 20 of 10 new members were finalized when the Catholic Daughters of America, Court Midland, met Tuesday at the Presentation Church Lyceum.

The new members are Mrs. Helen Angelon, Mrs. Angeline Masters, Mrs. Mary Feragotti, Mrs. Helen Maljevec, Mrs. Bertha Giordano, Mrs. Connie Steff, Mrs. John Uccellini, Mrs. Dorothy Kurhansky, Mrs. Mary Dominici and Mrs. Margaret Cronin.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. James Green or Mrs. Evelyn McGeehan by Oct. 16.

Prizes for paper costumes were awarded to Mrs. Lena Komara, prettiest, and Mrs. Marie Kovarik, most original.

The monthly prize was won by George Guisler. A special prize was won by JoAnn Cromo.

Donations were given to "Aid to Biafra", the annual Diocesan card party, and for a mass to be said for Bishop Gannon of Erie.

A report was heard on the recent spaghetti lunch served to children at Presentation School. Another lunch will be served Oct. 9.

It was announced "The Joys," a group of singing nuns from Mt. Galitzin High School, will sing for the Christmas meeting.

The next meeting, a covered-dish for members and husbands or guests, will be held Nov. 6 at the lyceum.

Mrs. Rocco Orlando, grand regent, presided.

Lake Erie 'Can Be Saved,' Pollution Study Report Says

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Lake Erie, old before its time because of pollution, can still be saved if action is taken immediately.

That was the word in a federal report released Wednesday aftr a five-year study costing $3 million.

The report, made public by Joe G. Moore Jr., commissioner of the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration, said:

"Every moment lost in allowing the destruction to continue will require a longer, more difficult and more expensive corrective action."

The report said Lake Erie has aged 15,000 years in the last 50 because of what man has dumped into it, adding that bacteria from sewage are a direct health hazard, particularly near metropolitan centers such as Cleveland.

Areas which bear the most responsibility for polluting the lake include Detroit and Wayne County in Michigan, and Toledo, Cleveland, Akron and Euclid, Ohio, the report said.

Industries must reduce their waste discharges to help solve the problem and the report called on states to mutually set limits on wastes discharged by an industry.

Such limits now are set only by Michigan and Pennsylvania of the Great Lakes states.

The report also recommended stricter enforcement, stronger state programs, consolidation of waste treatment plants and regional financing and planning.

"Once industry becomes more aware of the problem I think they will move to stop the pollution," Moore said.

Nine Ex-Highway Directors Support State Issue No. 1

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Nine former state highway directors have come to the support of State Issue No. 1 to be voted upon by Ohioans in November. Their tenure of office goes back to 1929.

The issue is for a $759 million capital improvements bond issue carrying $500 million earmarked for highway construction over a five-year period without an increase in taxes.

State Highway Director P. E. Masheter said it would save Ohio taxpayers "millions of dollars in the future because of rising prices."

Expressing their support of the issue to Masheter were former highway directors Robert N. Waid, Gen. Robert S. Geightler, H. G. Sours, T. J. Kauer, S. O. Linzell, George J. Thormyer, and E. S. Preston, all of Columbus; Earl Reeb of Hicksville and Murray S. Shaffer of Mansfield.

The bond issue provides that $250 million of the $500 in highway money would be used for urban extensions of state highways and highways within or leading to municipal corporations.

"Ohio must start on a program aimed at breaking traffic bottlenecks as soon as possible," Masheter said.

He said the pressing need for such a program is shown in projections which place Ohio's population at 13.5 million and registered vehicles at 7.2 million being driven 73.8 billion miles annually on Oho's roads and streets in the years ahead.

Advisory Group, Officials Confer On City's Future

A newly - appointed municipal Technical Advisory Committee held a "get-acquainted" dinner meeting Wednesday night at the Travelers Hotel with members of Council and the City Planning Commission.

The committee's personnel was approved by Council and Mayor George A. Willshaw. Its duties will include a study of the city's financial condition; an appraisal of the current planning and redevelopment program and recommendations on new ways of funding city services and projects.

Formation of such a committee was recommended several years ago by Carroll V. Hill, head of the professional planning firm that prepared the city's "master plan."

Council was represented by President Norman Bucher and Frank Duffy, Robert Sample, Donal Burcham, Floyd Murray, James Lowe and John Wilson. The Planning Commission was represented by George Steele, chairman, James Grafton, John Parsons, the mayor and Safety-Service Director Robert E. Vodrey. Planning Coordinator Don Eckert, Solicitor J. Michael Kapp and Hill also attended.

Comes As A Rude Surprise

It may come as a shock to Americans and Europeans that their efforts to save Biafran children from starvation is meeting with increasing resistance—in fact is arousing anger in many of the new nations of Africa.

But reports out of Africa are revealing just that. It seems the Western world's efforts to save the starving children has brought about a great loss of sympathy for the Biafran cause among African politicians.

In many capitals throught Africa, the feeling is being expressed that outsiders are meddling again in Africa's affairs.

WHEN THE Organization of African Unity summit meeting was held last month in Algiers, the Nigerian government won a huge vote of confidence and Biafra was left almost without friends or hope of meaningful support in Africa.

The resentment seems to involve the unspoken assumption that white people must still do for the blacks that the blacks are unable or unwilling to do for themselves.

Relief workers pouring into Biafra and the rest of Nigeria are learning with amazement and dismay that starvation and other forms of human distress do not disturb many Africans like they do people in richer and happier countries.

They are learning that the custom, where there is starvation, is to let the smallest and weakest die first, as they represent the smallest investment in food and clothes already paid.

In one quoted example a worker for Save the Children, in another African nation, learned that he could not give away food designated exclusively for children. He was told.

"If you want a tree to grow, you do not water the leaves, you water the roots."

Information of this type filtering back to the Western world may force a painful reappraisal of our relationship with these emerging African states relative both to our foreign aid program and our policy with regard to the efforts of church-sponsored and private humanitarian institutions.

THESE REPORTS will tend to support the position taken by the isolationists and those who would reduce foreign aid to many of the nations of the world which clearly seem not to want our assistance.

The idea that Biafra actually is being hurt by Western efforts to be humane and feed her starving children serves to point up a major difference in the cultures of many newly formed African nations and the older countries of Europe and North America.

Doing More About Litter

Litter for some time has joined weather among the things which men talk about but do little.

Increasing population and the widespread use of disposable paper, plastic, tin and glass have turned the trash problem into a giant headache for almost every community.

The disgusting, vermin-ridden dumps near Dixonville, along Beaver Creek and elsewhere in the tri-state area underscore the need for action. New solid waste disposal regulations in Ohio privide the stricter controls of public dumps, but the use of out-of-the way sites for illegal dumping continues.

People who have been trespassing and throwing away their trash and garbage in this unhealthy, unlawful practice must be made to realize the seriousness of the offenses they are committing against the community and themselves.

Private citizens should join with police and health agencies in apprehending those who violate the dumping laws.

Columbiana County authorities are becoming more aware of the necessity for providing disposal operations, and it can be expected that something is going to be done about this need.

At the same time, each man, woman and youngster will have to learn the importance of getting rid of trash in a safe, efficient and sanitary way, from the rubbish can in the back yard to the gum wrapper in the car and the pop carton on the front porch.

Letter To The Editor

Beavers Not Boring

I believe we students at Beaver Local have taken the Review's condescending attitude toward our football team long enough.

It seems that our team's wins are always played down, and the losses are usually splashed across the page. With the East Liverpool team, however, it is just the opposite.

Everyone knows East Liverpool's team is a very good one, but that does not give you the right to call Beaver Local's games boring. I am referring to the article written by Turk Pierce in Monday's paper. In it, he says the Beaver Local game (which we won) was boring, and the East Liverpool game (which they lost) was far from boring.

In my opinion, this was just an attempt to justify East Liverpool's loss while undermining our team's victory.

In closing, I would like to say that Beaver Local is very proud of its football team. And although the team has not won every game, I feel that "our" football games are "far from boring."

Timely Quotes

"I believe our young people give evidence of having the intelligence, the empathy and the ideals that will force this nation and others to turn to the needs of men rather than be mesmerized by the demands of power. I think this is one time in history when youth has not been wasted on the young."

—Rev. Malcolm Carron, S.J., president of the University of Detroit.

"For a long time we had told the disadvantaged of America: If you try and you are able, you will succeed. Yet there had been too little proof and too much contradiction; too little showing and too much telling."

Hecklers' Convention

By Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — Heckling of speakers has become such a big thing on college campuses these days that it has been decided to hold an Intercollegiate Hecklers Conference in the near future.

Art Buchwald

The man behind it is Hiram Bullhorn, who had come to Washington to arrange for speakers who could be heckled at the conference.

"We were hoping to get President Johnson," Hiram said, "but we may have to settle for Hubert Humphrey and Gen. Hershey."

"What do you intend to do at the conference?"

"WE WANT TO EXCHANGE ideas on heckling, discuss new methods of jeering and hooting and see if we can find ways of shedding more heat and less sight on the basic issues of the day."

"It should be very constructive," I said.

"I've had a very good response. Almost every university in the country wants to send a delegation. That is, if they don't have any speakers to heckle on their campuses the week of the convention."

"How do you intend to conduct the conference?"

"We'll break it down into seminars. One group will discuss 'heckling from the balcony,' another 'heckling from the floor,' and a third, for graduate students, will devote itself to 'what to do if you can grab the mike.'

"WE WILL ALSO HOLD a session on 'new jeers' and classes in 'dirty sign painting.' And we shall probably devote an entire afternoon to 'what to do about antiheckling,' "

"What do you mean by 'antiheckling'?"

"Well, for some time hecklers were permitted to heckle without being interrupted. But lately the speakers have been heckling the hecklers. Muskie has been embarrassing students by giving them time to state their cases. Humphrey has been hooting at kids in the balcony. Wallace tells the TV men to turn their cameras on the hecklers to embarrass them, and even Nixon has been using hecklers to get sympathy for himself.

"This antiheckling behavior of the speakers has caused a great deal of resentment among activist students and is a violation of the First Amendment, which guarantees to all citizens the right to hoot and jeer without fear of having to listen to what someone has to say."

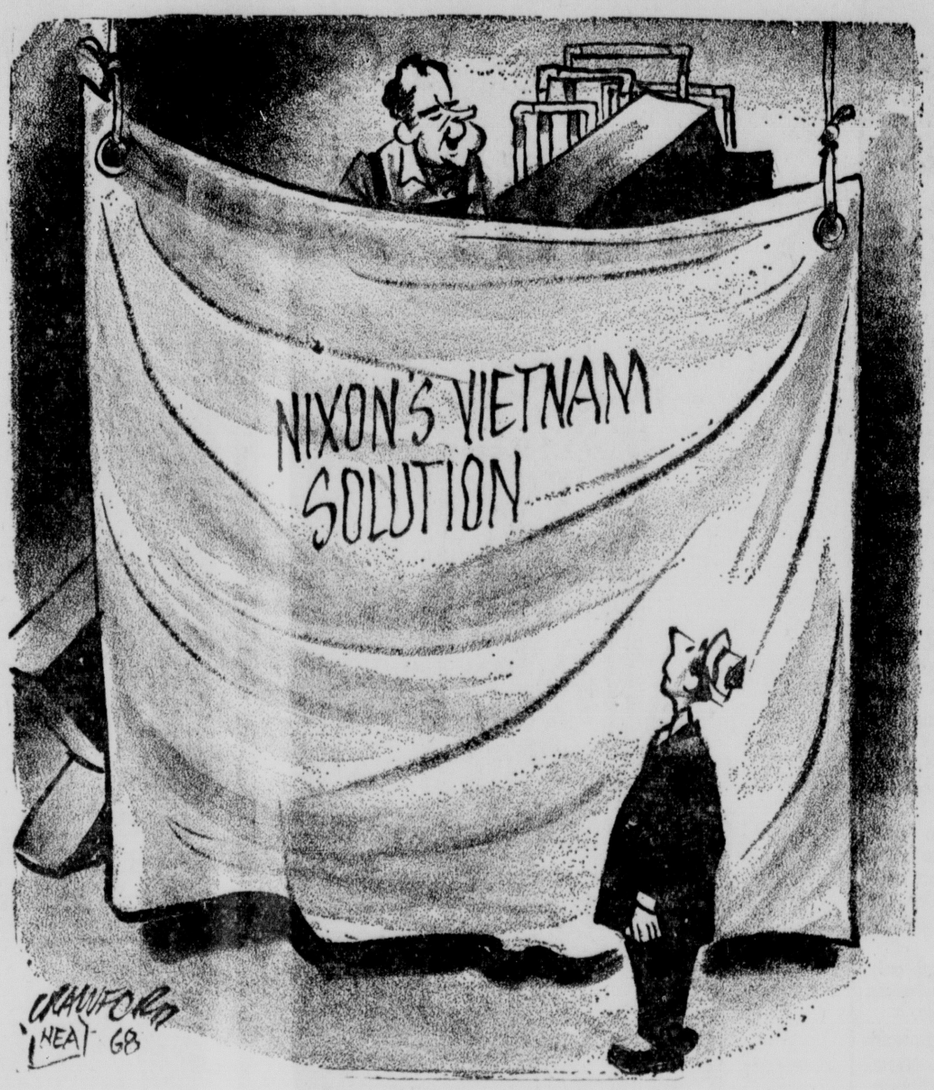

"But what can you do about it?"

WE WILL PROBABLY CALL for legislation to make antiheckling illegal, and we shall train student leaders in antiantiheckling techniques. This will include cutting off microphones, the use of larger hand megaphones and the escalation of catcalling. If we can't stop someone from speaking without their answering back, then free speech in this country has come to a sorry pass."

"I couldn't agree with you more. Where will you hold your first hecklers' convention?"

"Everyone wants it. Berkeley has asked for it; Columbia has lobbied for it; Madison, Wisc., says they'll host it; but we think the only place to have a convention in this country is Chicago. For one thing, they have the best facilities for hecklers, and for another, after all the unfortunate publicity Mayor Daley got after the Democratic convention, he deserves the business."

Bayonets In The Streets

NEW YORK — Openly, defiantly and aggressively, in this asphalt jungle, executives of the federal anti-poverty headquarters are cheering, supporting and directing the black militants' war on the labor movement, the municipality and the weary establishment.

Victor Riesel

Federal and civic money is paying the bills for the revolution, as it's boastfully called. This is not a black revolt. This is open rebellion by brilliantly organized bands of militants, which the nation's most influential labor chiefs now, in cold anger, call "vigilantes" who "must be stopped

Grim stories leak through the closed doors of meetings in high places. City officials talk of using "bayonets" if needed. Anti-poverty officials, approved by the government's Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), publicly cheer the extremists' strategy, calling for opening struck schools, one by one . . . "whatever it takes, by whatever means —."

Directors of the city's Council Against Poverty (OEO) openly and publicly demand that leaders of the striking United Federation of Teachers and the school ..... supervisors organization be jailed and fined; that the police be used to open schools; that the union be smashed. And then the Council blasts the police on general principles.

AS I CAME IN FROM the campaign trails, I note in city after city that the story of the New York commune gets less notice than a Detroit Tigers pitcher's ligaments. That's unfortunate. New York's the best stadium for the biggest social and racial world series in the century.

Except for a report or two buried in the local prints, a meeting of over 700 union chiefs, speaking for 555 locals with 1.2 million members (almost 10 per cent of the national labor movement) went unreported.

In the packed and sweated Hotel Commodore's East Ballroom, there were cries of "Harry, let's shut down the city . . . Harry, let's strike."

They came, ostensibly to support 53,000 school instructors belonging to the United Federation of Teachers (AFL-CIO).

This massive strike is in protest against the firing of 110 teachers, without due process or legality, by a militant Ocean Hill - Brownsville ghetto decentralized school board.

Through the jammed hall ran reports no labor leader could ignore. Building and construction trades union chiefs were told of openly contemptous warnings by black militants that there would be no construction in this city until "thousands of white workers were fired and replaced by ghetto residents."

SKILLED EMPLOYES of the Central Board of Education, carpenters, electricians, plumbers, operating engineers, drivers, et. al., who had passed civil service examinations, were warned that, after the teachers, come they.

In another auditorium across town, thousands of militants, with their own uniformed security movement.

On the stage with the Panthers' leaders, with the extremists, with the local ghetto officials, were the men who spent millions of federal and municipal dollars in the anti-poverty program. They were for smashing the strike.

"This will change the face of the labor movement," he muttered dolefully. "We cannot sit around and watch the movement be liquidated.

"There is sentiment for a city-wide strike. It is growing strongly. We controlled this meeting. But there's a fury. I don't think we can handle another under such provocation.

"OUR PEOPLE NOW SEE this as a matter of life and death for what we've built over the decades."

The enemy now includes the national, as well as the local, OEO headquarters. Protests flow from here to the national AFL-CIO building across from the White House.

A spokesman for the national labor headquarters put it bluntly this way:

"If there is anything Harry (Van Arsdale) thinks the national office can do, he has only to pick up the phone. He gets George (Meany) and he gets what he wants. George has great confidence in him."

Thus, the war flares from these stone canyons to the capital's byways. Thus, this becomes a national struggle, an explosive civil war.

Apparently the Office of Economic Opportunity sees no danger, issues no appeal to reason, disciplines no regional officials. Nor do they come up with answers from newsmen, this newsmen anyway.

What are they waiting for, bayonets in the streets?

DAVID LAWRENCE

Emotional Issues

Emotional issues sometimes outweigh everything else in a presidential campaign and it looks this year as if those questions which have aroused intense feelings are uppermost in the minds of the voters.

From all parts of the country come virtually the same reports from campaign workers and others who have sought to learn what is truly preoccupying the thoughts of most people.

Whenever there is a war going on, the voters are always deeply worried. But this time there are issues of even more widespread and intimate concern which are causing the people to be gravely discontented and fearful.

Members of Congress are hearing about this in the letters they receive. When many of them go back to their districts, they are buttonholed by their constituents and given plenty of complaints.

THE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES are dealing in the vaguest way with solutions for these issues, although they know how deep-seated are the people's feelings on each one. The call for "law and order" has bees popularized but citizens generally are upset because they believe that governmental authority has not been exercised effectively at the federal, state or city levels.

Nixon, in one of his speeches this week, promised to set up a national law-enforcement council and to select an attorney general who would really prosecute violations of federal law —which the Republicans contend has been neglected.

Humphrey has issued a task force report on "order and justice" and says the nation must mobilize not only to enforce the laws but to root out social and economic causes of crime and violence.

Wallace promises a stern and repressive policy on the problem of civil disorder and crime in the streets.

The average voter isn't so interested in any particular remedy. But he does want "something done" to stop riots, make the streets safe and produce a more peaceful relationship between the races.

The protest vote is not confined to any segment of the people. Racial consciousness in some cities has reached an extreme point. A substantial majority of the Negroes want peace and are not sympathetic with the militants. In almost all the riots Negroes have suffered more injuries than have whites.

WHETHER YOU TALK to taxi drivers in the big cities or to farmers in the country districts or to dwellers in suburban areas, the same intensity of protest is encountered.

The ordinary citizen doesn't offer any solution for the crime problem but he thinks the presidential candidates ought to have one. He feels the government ought to be able to find an answer. So his vote this year will be registered in protest against inaction and for whoever promises really to "do something" that is decisive and seems likely to carry out his pledges.

Among the most penetrating issues which have built much emotional stress are federal "integration" activities which involve the busing of children from one school district to another and the various laws forbidding owners of property to sell to whomever they please.

The amazing size of the Wallace percentages in different states is, of course, due to the mood of protest. Primarily the undecurrent of discontent is leveled at the existing administration in Washington. This has happened many times before—the people blame unfavorable developments on the party in power.

Summed up, reports of voter sentiment indicate clearly that there is a desire for change. In the past, when a change in the party in power has been sought and obtained, the new administration has sometimes not done much better than the preceding one.

But the people feel, when they vote for an opposition candidate, that at least the new chief executive will not be bound by party ties or platforms to pursue the same course as his predecessor.

THE PROTEST TODAY is emerging in all sections of the country. It seems to be controlling the voters' attitudes, irrespective of the fact that economic conditions are, generally speaking, satisfactory on the whole.

While the constantly rising cost of living is frequently referred to as an unfavorable development for the party in power, it doesn't disturb the voters nearly as much as the emotional issues of the day.

Comes As A Rude Surprise

It may come as a shock to Americans and Europeans that their efforts to save Biafran children from starvation is meeting with increasing resistance—in fact is arousing anger in many of the new nations of Africa.

But reports out of Africa are revealing just that. It seems the Western world's efforts to save the starving children has brought about a great loss of sympathy for the Biafran cause among African politicians.

In many capitals throught Africa, the feeling is being expressed that outsiders are meddling again in Africa's affairs.

WHEN THE Organization of African Unity summit meeting was held last month in Algiers, the Nigerian government won a huge vote of confidence and Biafra was left almost without friends or hope of meaningful support in Africa.

The resentment seems to involve the unspoken assumption that white people must still do for the blacks that the blacks are unable or unwilling to do for themselves.

Relief workers pouring into Biafra and the rest of Nigeria are learning with amazement and dismay that starvation and other forms of human distress do not disturb many Africans like they do people in richer and happier countries.

They are learning that the custom, where there is starvation, is to let the smallest and weakest die first, as they represent the smallest investment in food and clothes already paid.

In one quoted example a worker for Save the Children, in another African nation, learned that he could not give away food designated exclusively for children. He was told.

"If you want a tree to grow, you do not water the leaves, you water the roots."

Information of this type filtering back to the Western world may force a painful reappraisal of our relationship with these emerging African states relative both to our foreign aid program and our policy with regard to the efforts of church-sponsored and private humanitarian institutions.

THESE REPORTS will tend to support the position taken by the isolationists and those who would reduce foreign aid to many of the nations of the world which clearly seem not to want our assistance.

The idea that Biafra actually is being hurt by Western efforts to be humane and feed her starving children serves to point up a major difference in the cultures of many newly formed African nations and the older countries of Europe and North America.

Doing More About Litter

Litter for some time has joined weather among the things which men talk about but do little.

Increasing population and the widespread use of disposable paper, plastic, tin and glass have turned the trash problem into a giant headache for almost every community.

The disgusting, vermin-ridden dumps near Dixonville, along Beaver Creek and elsewhere in the tri-state area underscore the need for action. New solid waste disposal regulations in Ohio privide the stricter controls of public dumps, but the use of out-of-the way sites for illegal dumping continues.

People who have been trespassing and throwing away their trash and garbage in this unhealthy, unlawful practice must be made to realize the seriousness of the offenses they are committing against the community and themselves.

Private citizens should join with police and health agencies in apprehending those who violate the dumping laws.

Columbiana County authorities are becoming more aware of the necessity for providing disposal operations, and it can be expected that something is going to be done about this need.

At the same time, each man, woman and youngster will have to learn the importance of getting rid of trash in a safe, efficient and sanitary way, from the rubbish can in the back yard to the gum wrapper in the car and the pop carton on the front porch.

Letter To The Editor

Beavers Not Boring

I believe we students at Beaver Local have taken the Review's condescending attitude toward our football team long enough.

It seems that our team's wins are always played down, and the losses are usually splashed across the page. With the East Liverpool team, however, it is just the opposite.

Everyone knows East Liverpool's team is a very good one, but that does not give you the right to call Beaver Local's games boring. I am referring to the article written by Turk Pierce in Monday's paper. In it, he says the Beaver Local game (which we won) was boring, and the East Liverpool game (which they lost) was far from boring.

In my opinion, this was just an attempt to justify East Liverpool's loss while undermining our team's victory.

In closing, I would like to say that Beaver Local is very proud of its football team. And although the team has not won every game, I feel that "our" football games are "far from boring."

Timely Quotes

"I believe our young people give evidence of having the intelligence, the empathy and the ideals that will force this nation and others to turn to the needs of men rather than be mesmerized by the demands of power. I think this is one time in history when youth has not been wasted on the young."

—Rev. Malcolm Carron, S.J., president of the University of Detroit.

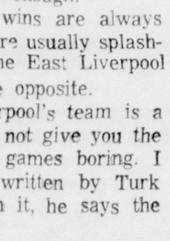

"For a long time we had told the disadvantaged of America: If you try and you are able, you will succeed. Yet there had been too little proof and too much contradiction; too little showing and too much telling."

Hecklers' Convention

By Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — Heckling of speakers has become such a big thing on college campuses these days that it has been decided to hold an Intercollegiate Hecklers Conference in the near future.

Art Buchwald

The man behind it is Hiram Bullhorn, who had come to Washington to arrange for speakers who could be heckled at the conference.

"We were hoping to get President Johnson," Hiram said, "but we may have to settle for Hubert Humphrey and Gen. Hershey."

"What do you intend to do at the conference?"

"WE WANT TO EXCHANGE ideas on heckling, discuss new methods of jeering and hooting and see if we can find ways of shedding more heat and less sight on the basic issues of the day."

"It should be very constructive," I said.

"I've had a very good response. Almost every university in the country wants to send a delegation. That is, if they don't have any speakers to heckle on their campuses the week of the convention."

"How do you intend to conduct the conference?"

"We'll break it down into seminars. One group will discuss 'heckling from the balcony,' another 'heckling from the floor,' and a third, for graduate students, will devote itself to 'what to do if you can grab the mike.'

"WE WILL ALSO HOLD a session on 'new jeers' and classes in 'dirty sign painting.' And we shall probably devote an entire afternoon to 'what to do about antiheckling,' "

"What do you mean by 'antiheckling'?"

"Well, for some time hecklers were permitted to heckle without being interrupted. But lately the speakers have been heckling the hecklers. Muskie has been embarrassing students by giving them time to state their cases. Humphrey has been hooting at kids in the balcony. Wallace tells the TV men to turn their cameras on the hecklers to embarrass them, and even Nixon has been using hecklers to get sympathy for himself.

"This antiheckling behavior of the speakers has caused a great deal of resentment among activist students and is a violation of the First Amendment, which guarantees to all citizens the right to hoot and jeer without fear of having to listen to what someone has to say."

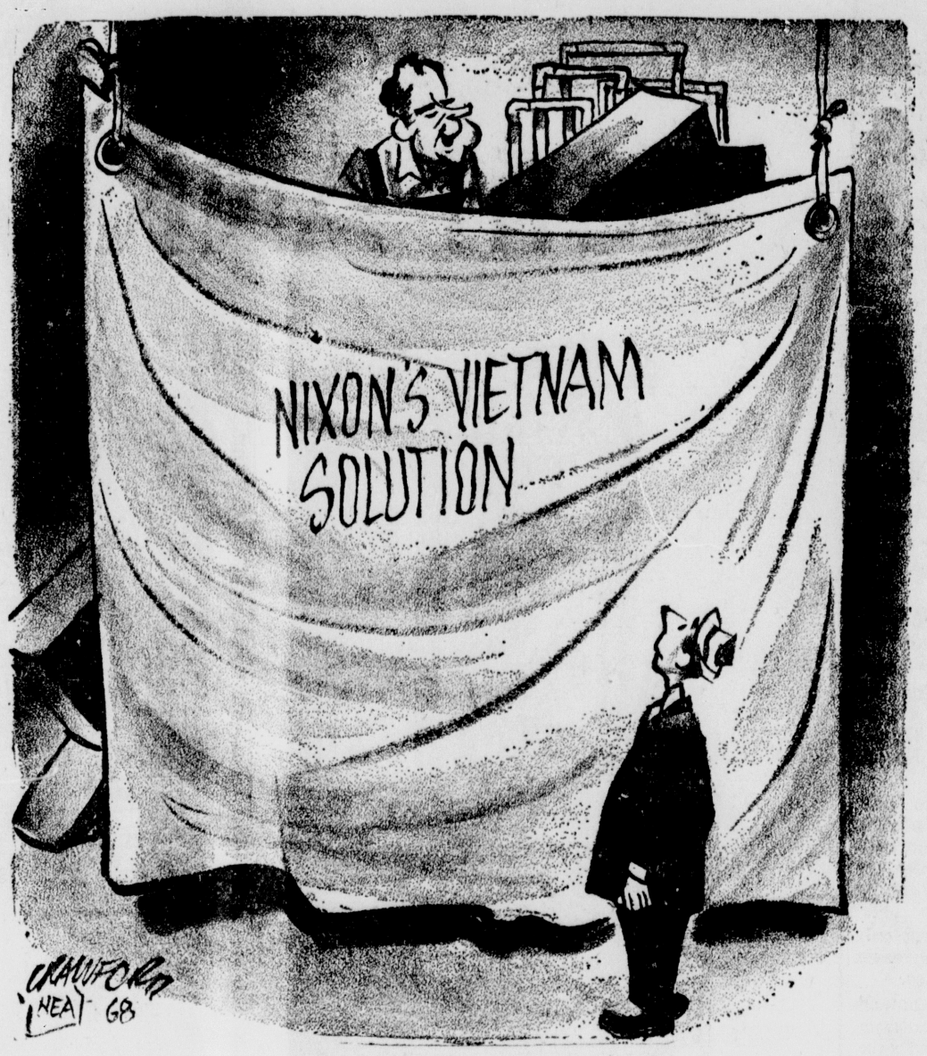

"But what can you do about it?"

WE WILL PROBABLY CALL for legislation to make antiheckling illegal, and we shall train student leaders in antiantiheckling techniques. This will include cutting off microphones, the use of larger hand megaphones and the escalation of catcalling. If we can't stop someone from speaking without their answering back, then free speech in this country has come to a sorry pass."

"I couldn't agree with you more. Where will you hold your first hecklers' convention?"

"Everyone wants it. Berkeley has asked for it; Columbia has lobbied for it; Madison, Wisc., says they'll host it; but we think the only place to have a convention in this country is Chicago. For one thing, they have the best facilities for hecklers, and for another, after all the unfortunate publicity Mayor Daley got after the Democratic convention, he deserves the business."

raft. The pilot was listed as missing in action.

U.S. pilots flew 130 missions over North Vietnam's southern panhandle Wednesday. They reported destroying or damaging a dozen trucks and 25 sampans and barges ferrying war supplies into South Vietnam. A surface-to-air missile site just below the 19th Parallel also was reported knocked out.

Headquarters also announced that seven wounded American infantrymen being lifted out of a battle were killed Tuesday when North Vietnamese gunners shot down a medical evacuation helicopter 55 miles southwest of Da Nang. Five crewmen and two other wounded infantrymen on the helicopter were rescued. All of the crewmen were wounded.

U.S. officials in Saigon said the decrease in fighting this week apparently was due to rain-swollen canals and rice paddies.

"The enemy has crawled back into the woodwork," said one top officer. "There's not been a significant action in the last six days in 3rd Corps," the area from Saigon to the Cambodian border.

"One of the Viet Cong's problems," said the officer "is that they can't get their offensive organized because the water is too high to the west and south of Saigon. They can't move. There's nothing but a big lake out there."

The rice paddies and canals in the outlying areas have been swollen by the southwest monsoons that are now ending.

"According to the engineers, the water table will drop Oct. 15," the officer said. "We think after the water goes down they'll start up again at Tay Ninh and Loc Ninh. Once that gets going they may try to attack Saigon."

The two cities are northwest of Saigon near the Cambodian border. Intelligence officers said repeated attacks on them during August and September indicate the enemy considers them key spots along invasion routes.

it an "unacceptable" invasion. Swedish Foreign Minister Torsten Nilsson labeled it "a tragical error." Dominican Foreign Minister Fernando Amiami-Tio described it as "an anomalous situation."

A Polish delegate said, "It was most unstatesmanlike of him to inject Czechoslovakia into the debate. There is no threat to world peace in Czechoslovakia."

Boy Fatally Shocked

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Kenneth Garrett, 7, was fatally shocked in the bathtub of his home here Wednesday when he turned on a vanity lamp he had in his hands, authorities said.

"Blue sky laws" are laws designed to prevent the sale of fraudulent securities.

LeMay

the United States should destroy "all the works of man in North Vietnam" and that a Korea-like settlement is unthinkable.

"No matter how the politicians may hail such a truce as an American victory, it will be gained at such a costly price as to be pyrrhic," LeMay said in his recent book, "America is in Danger."

"The virus of communism will continue to spread throughout Southeast Asia because we failed to administer a sound and decisive defeat to its organized propagators," he said.

He said nuclear weapons would probably not be needed but he isn't opposed to using them. "What is the logic in preferring to drop 20,000 tons of explosives from 1,000 aircraft... when roughly the same effect could be gained by one aircraft with a small nuclear weapon," he has said.

Wallace, who was a flight crewman on a B29 in World War II, also believes the United States can win a military victory in Vietnam.

Wallace told 200 hecklers at a political rally Wednesday night about his war service. As the group shouted choruses of "Sieg Heil," Wallace said:

"I was fighting the Nazis before you were ever born. In World War II we ran the Nazis out of the country and one of these days we're going to run all the Communists out of this country."

The 8,000 cheering, stomping supporters in Pittsburgh's Civic Arena drowned out the hecklers.

"You're going to get me a million votes," Wallace told the hecklers. "You are the personification of what folks are tired of in this country."

The rally capped a day of campaigning through industrial centers of the Midwest, where organized labor is worried that it cannot hold the rank-and-file in the Democratic fold.

LeMay flew in by commercial airliner with two of Wallace's campaign aides. He was met at the airport by Secret Service agents, required by law to accompany presidential and vice presidential candidates.

LeMay, who flew so much as a commanding general during World War II that the Air Force finally told him to stop, waved the knot of reporters off and sped away in a limousine.

LeMay developed the heavy bombing techniques that blasted Germany to her knees and smashed Japan. A military biographer called him "the architect of systematic destruction."

He also was the architect of the Berlin air lift of 1948-49 that turned into a major diplomatic defeat for the Soviet Union.

In 1948 he was named head of the Strategic Air Command and built it from a handful of aging B29s into the world's most powerful bombing force. After he became Air Force chief of staff in 1961, he fought bitterly against Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's de-emphasis of bomber defense and SAC.

LeMay once said the guided missile would never replace the manned airplane for the simple reason that it "can't think." that the food is "non - nutritional." Confining a prisoner in the jail is "not according to standards of justice," it asserts.

LeMay personally led B17s into combat in Europe to prove that daylight bombing was practical.

The judge pointed out that the case already has been decided "as to the question of guilt or innocence." Ice was convicted after a lengthy hearing. The charges arose out of a fight in which Brookes was injured after placing Ice under arrest in the Buckeye Club on Sunday, Sept. 8.

The Health Board, at its meeting in mid - September, cited alleged improper conditions at the jail and called on city officials to make corrections. The Health Board cited particularly a lack of bathing facilities.

Mayor George E. Willshaw said Tuesday the administration was investigating the need for installing new shower facilities to replace equipment ripped off the wall in the past by unruly prisoners. He estimated $100 would be required.

The mayor said if a new shower is installed it must be in an enclosure so that its use can be regulated by police and it is safe from future destruction.

At least 30 gallons of sap are needed to make one gallon of maple syrup.

Deaths and Funerals

Harold McNicol

Harold Vincent McNicol, 71, of 1869 Lisbon St., a former kilnplacer at the Taylor Smith & Taylor Co., died Wednesday at 1:23 p. m. at City Hospital after a lingering illness.

A native of East Liverpool, Mr. McNicol was born Jan. 22, 1897, a son of the late Daniel B. McNicol and Caroline Nath McNicol. He had resided here his lifetime and was a World War I veteran.

For many years he was assessment collector for the IBOP in area potteries. He belonged to St. Aloysius Catholic Church, Carroll Council 509, Knights of Columbus, and was an honorary member of the IBOP.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Artie Leigh McNicol, and two daughters, Miss Grace McNicol and Miss Bonnie McNicol, all at home; seven sons, Ralph McNicol, at home, James McNicol of Newell, Richard McNicol of Hubbard, Robert McNicol of Columbus, Harold (Mike) McNicol of Rogers, Patrick McNicol and Joseph McNicol both of East Liverpool; two brothers, Joseph McNicol of Erie, Pa., and William McNicol of East Liverpool, and 10 grandchildren.

A Resurrection Mass will be said Saturday at 9:30 a. m. at the church by Fr. William Lawler. Burial will be in Columbiana County Memorial Park.

Friends may call tonight, Friday afternoon and night at the Dawson Funeral Home, where the Rosary will be recited Friday at 8 p.m.

Lee McDole

Services for Lee Wayne McDole, 55, of Newell RD 1 will be held Friday at 1:30 p. m. at the Cannon Funeral Home in Midland.

Burial will be in Oak Grove Cemetery, Industry.

Mr. McDole died Wednesday morning at City Hospital from injuries received earlier in an auto mishap on Route 2.

A World War II Army overseas veteran, he was born in Smiths Ferry Oct. 10, 1912, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William S. McDole. He had resided in the Midland area most of his lifetime and in Newell for several years.

He was a truck driver and had worked for the Radella Trucking Co., Guy Gengarella & Sons of Midland and at the Midland Division of the Crucible Steel Corp. He also at one time operated a taxi service in Midland.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Louise E. McDole of East Liverpool; seven brothers, Orville McDole and Clifford McDole, both of East Liverpool, Cecil McDole of East Rochester, Earl McDole, and Francis L. McDole of Ohioville, Robert B. McDole and Gerald T. McDole of Smiths Ferry; three sisters, Mrs. Mae Ward and Mrs. Sam (Hazel) Jermanovich of East Liverpool and Miss Mildred McDole of Bucyrus.

Friends may call at the funeral home any time.

Life's Little Ordeals

One Is Having Imperfect Memory For Names

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — One of life's little ordeals is having an imperfect memory for names.

Most of us are in this plight. We rather envy people like former Postmaster General James A. Farley, the sprightly octogenarian who has the reputation of never forgetting the identity of anyone he has ever met. It is said of Jim that he even had a prenatal memory, and that immediately after birth he handed the doctor a cigar and called the surprised medic by his first name.

Such powers of total recall, cultivated by politicians and salesmen, are beyond most of us. What feeble memory we do have seems to desert us in an emergency. If asked unexpectedly to introduce his own mother, many a man stutters and murmurs, "I'd like you to—uh—meet—uh Mama." Under sudden stress he not only can momentarily forget his mother's name—he can forget his own.

This is such a human fact of normal life that you would think it would be taken for granted by everyone, and accepted for what it is—a temporary lapse.

But it isn't. All of our lives are made hideous at times by those oddballs who rush up to us at a social function, stick out their paw and demand loudly:

"I'll bet you don't even know who I am!"

Thus challenged, your mind immediately flees. Guilt assails you. All you can see is the bulbous face of your tormenter. Everyone nearby stops talking and watches your feeble struggles.

"Sidney Beaverhoff?"

"Nope."

"Bascom Ripplethwaite?"

"Nope."

"Algy Whumperdink?"

"Nope." He is leering triumphantly now and the crowd is snickering.

"Well, you face is familiar, but—." Your voice trails off lamely.

"I'm Abner Jabberwocky, the guy you slept next to in Latin during our sophomore year in high school," he crows. And then the inevitable note of injury creeps into his tone: "You're not the kind of a guy who forgets his old pals, are you?"

Old Pal, the devil. All you want to do is to wrap your hands around his throat for the public humilitation he has caused you. Now that you have found out who he is, you can't wait to start forgetting him again.

It would seem but ordinary courtesy when you meet someone you haven't seen for a long time to mention your own name first and save him from possible embarrasment. But the world is full of characters who want to make a guessing game of their own identity. They appear to get a positive pleasure out of making their victims squirm.

Often they turn out to be people with utterly forgettable personalties, and your memory has done you a favor by balking and stubbornly refusing to recall them. The only thing that would make them memorable would be to have their names tattooed on their foreheads in purple ink, followed by the words: "I'm a bore—beware."

The best way to deal with one of these social pests when he plants himself in front of you and asks, "Who am I?" is to answer, "Your phase is familiar, but I hoped you'd outgrow it."

Then walk away. You may make an enemy, but don't worry. He probably isn't the kind of a guy who would mention you favorably in his will anyway.

2 Admitted, Others Treated In Emergencies At Hospital

Two Chester area residents injured Wednesday in separate accidents were admitted to City Hospital, where 19 others were treated.

Eber Parsons of Chester RD 1, an employe of Globe Refractories, also is "fair" with severe lacerations of the left thumb suffered on a saw at work.

Brenda K. Neer, daughter of Carl Neer of 140 W. 4th St., a sprain of the left foot in gym class; Alberta F. Wilson of 94 Grant St., Newell, a puncture wound of the left foot on a needle.

Wellsville Girl Ranked High In U.S. Merit Test

Cynthia Ann Moore, a student at Wellsville High School, has received a letter of commendation for her high performance in the 1968 National Merit Scholarship qualifying test.

The announcement was made by Principal William Menough.

She is among 39,000 students in the U.S. who scored in the upper 2 per cent of those who will be graduated from high school in 1969, Menough pointed out. The commended students rank just below the 15,000 semi-finalists announced in September.

Patrol Lists Area Mishaps

A 33-year-old city man and a passenger in his car escaped injury about 8 a. m. after a brake line broke on Wilson's Hill, near the Pennsylvania state line.

Phillip R. Monac of 1094 Pennsylvania Ave. told officers from the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon that they had begun the descent when the line broke.

The auto also hit a boulder and turned on its top, officers said.

A New Waterford woman was examined at Salem City Hospital Wednesday afternoon for possible injuries suffered when she swerved her car off the roadway in order to avoid an unidentified car traveling down the center of Highway 46, 1½ miles southeast of Route 7.

Emma M. Gregorino, 46, of Boardman St., New Waterford, received no apparent injuries when her 1968 sedan swerved off the right side, then the left side of the road and sheered a utility pole about 12:30 p.m.

A city driver and an Elkton man were cited in a two-car accident Wednesday about 5 p.m. on Darner Rd., about 1.8 miles south of Route 154.

Harold T. Salsberry, 34, of Madison Heights and Samuel H. Parks, 33, of Elkton were both cited when their cars collided while they were attempting turns at an intersection.

Though both drivers complained of injuries, they were not treated. Both were cited for making "improper turns," patrolmen said.

A fence owned by Lucille Possage was knocked loose when struck by a 1964 coupe being pushed by an 18-year-old Wellsville resident along Route 45, south of Route 30, Wednesday at 4 a. m.

No citations were issued to Lawrence E. Roseberry of Wellsville RD 4 who was pushing the auto onto the berm when it struck the fence.

A westbound sedan driven by Judith Lynn Cope, 21, of Sillman St., New Waterford, ran off the left side of the road and struck an embankment on Route 431 Wednesday about 4:40 p.m. The driver was uninjured.

Discussion Held On Membership At Post Meeting

Membership at the post, county, district and state levels was discussed by James R. Poynter, 10th District second vice commander, when American Legion Post 374 met at the home in East End.

Comdr. John Long presided.

Two members approved a donation to the Veterans City Council for the purchase of more American flags and the sending of two delegates to the Legion state leadership classes Oct. 19 and 20 at Columbus.

Densel McKinney was appointed chairman of the "Gifts to the Yanks Who Gave" drive for 1968-69 and Donald Gooding was presented two reserved seat tickets to Friday night's football game at Patterson Field.

Adjt. Robert Milne read a letter from the Ohio Valley Gas Co. relative to changes in the furnace and air - conditioning unit.

Donald Hancock, first vice commander, announced that the post will sponsor a bus to the East Liverpool - Boardman football game Oct. 25 at Broardman and requested reservations be made as quickly as possible.

James Wallover, service officer, asked members to contact the home relative to any member in a hospital or ill at home.

A dance will be sponsored at the post Saturday from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m.

The next meeting will be Monday.

Grid Games To Start At 5 In Youngstown

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Public high school football games in Youngstown will start at 5 p. m. this weekend because of disturbances following the North - South football game at South High stadium last Friday.

The games previously started at 7:45 p.m., but School Supt. Woodrow W. Zinser said Wednesday he felt it necessary to change the kickoff times because of the troubles last weekend.

New Officers Installed For Mothers Club

Mrs. Donna Ketchum, past president, presented the gavel and club bylaws to Mrs. Annabelle White during a meeting of the Beaver Local Mothers Club Wednesday afternoon at the elementary school.

In addition to Mrs. White, officers installed by Mrs. Donna Curran, school secretary, were: Mrs. Helen Vishak, vice president; Mrs. Peg Purinton, secretary, and Mrs. Pauline Apple, treasurer.

Chairmen of standing committees for the new term include Mrs. Sue Moore, hostess; Mrs. Carol Hoppel, hospitality; Mrs. Regis Watters, ways and means, and Mrs. F. K. Jones, publicity.

Lew Sowards, who has reared foster children the last 20 years, was guest speaker, with his topic "Patterning For Retardation."

The next meeting will be Nov. 6.

Employes At Work As Talks Continue

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Some 700 nonacademic employes remained on the job today as Ohio University officials and union representatives resumed contract talks. The union agreed Wednesday to continue working during negotiations.

Pay raises, agency shop and fulltime union stewards top a list of 17 demands by Local 1699, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes. School trustees say the three items are not negotiable.

Fitness Club Crowns No. 1 Weight Loser

A baby gift was presented to Sherry Crane.

The club meets every Monday and Thursday at 7 p.m. All girls 18 and over are welcome to attend.

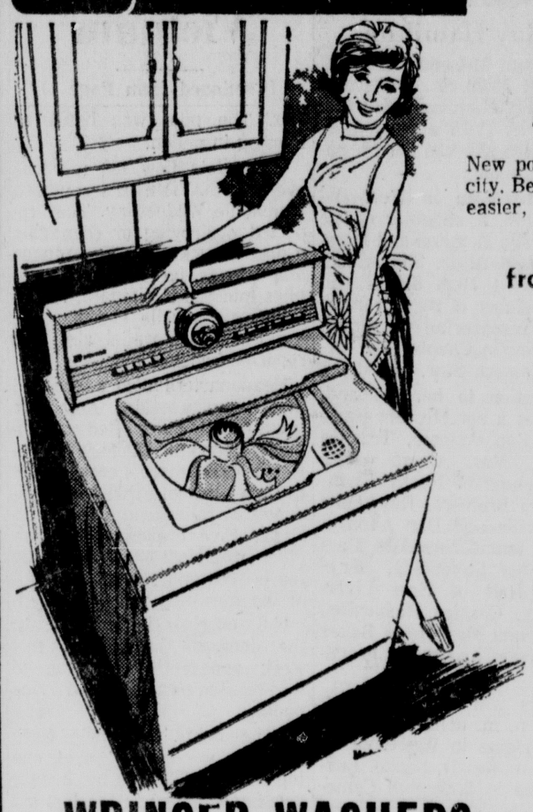

Settlement Sought In Ohio Firm Strike

NORWALK, Ohio (AP) — A federal mediator will try today to settle a strike by 150 employes of the Akron Standard Mold Co. in Greenwich.

Members of the Mutual Employes Association struck the firm in southern Huron County Monday after their contract expired. Management has offered a new three-year pact but this was turned down by the workers because it did not have a wage reopener clause.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

One Is Having Imperfect Memory For Names

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — One of life's little ordeals is having an imperfect memory for names.

Most of us are in this plight. We rather envy people like former Postmaster General James A. Farley, the sprightly octogenarian who has the reputation of never forgetting the identity of anyone he has ever met. It is said of Jim that he even had a prenatal memory, and that immediately after birth he handed the doctor a cigar and called the surprised medic by his first name.

Such powers of total recall, cultivated by politicians and salesmen, are beyond most of us. What feeble memory we do have seems to desert us in an emergency. If asked unexpectedly to introduce his own mother, many a man stutters and murmurs, "I'd like you to—uh—meet—uh Mama." Under sudden stress he not only can momentarily forget his mother's name—he can forget his own.

This is such a human fact of normal life that you would think it would be taken for granted by everyone, and accepted for what it is—a temporary lapse.

But it isn't. All of our lives are made hideous at times by those oddballs who rush up to us at a social function, stick out their paw and demand loudly:

"I'll bet you don't even know who I am!"

Thus challenged, your mind immediately flees. Guilt assails you. All you can see is the bulbous face of your tormenter. Everyone nearby stops talking and watches your feeble struggles.

"Sidney Beaverhoff?"

"Nope."

"Bascom Ripplethwaite?"

"Nope."

"Algy Whumperdink?"

"Nope." He is leering triumphantly now and the crowd is snickering.

"Well, you face is familiar, but—." Your voice trails off lamely.

"I'm Abner Jabberwocky, the guy you slept next to in Latin during our sophomore year in high school," he crows. And then the inevitable note of injury creeps into his tone: "You're not the kind of a guy who forgets his old pals, are you?"

Old Pal, the devil. All you want to do is to wrap your hands around his throat for the public humilitation he has caused you. Now that you have found out who he is, you can't wait to start forgetting him again.

It would seem but ordinary courtesy when you meet someone you haven't seen for a long time to mention your own name first and save him from possible embarrasment. But the world is full of characters who want to make a guessing game of their own identity. They appear to get a positive pleasure out of making their victims squirm.

Often they turn out to be people with utterly forgettable personalties, and your memory has done you a favor by balking and stubbornly refusing to recall them. The only thing that would make them memorable would be to have their names tattooed on their foreheads in purple ink, followed by the words: "I'm a bore—beware."

The best way to deal with one of these social pests when he plants himself in front of you and asks, "Who am I?" is to answer, "Your phase is familiar, but I hoped you'd outgrow it."

Then walk away. You may make an enemy, but don't worry. He probably isn't the kind of a guy who would mention you favorably in his will anyway.

In Chicago Street Fighting

Where Did Protestors Get Money? Prober Asks

WASHINGTON (AP) — A member of a House panel staging a probe into street fighting during the Democratic convention says he wants to know where the demonstration organizers got their money.

Rep. Albert Watson of the House un-American activities subcommittee said he would subpoena records and financial statements if witnesses balk during testimony today.

Witnesses ordered to appear at the hearing included Abbie Hoffman and Jerry Rubin, leaders of the Yippies—Youth International Party—and David Dellinger, Rennie Davis, Thomas Hayden and Robert Greenblat of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam.

Watson, R-S.C., said Wednesday, "The violence in Chicago was planned months in advance, and only an exorbitant amount of money could guarantee the success of the student disruption in that city."

The demonstrations triggered a series of bloody clashes with police and National Guardsmen, who used clubs, Mace and tear gas to disperse the crowds.

The subpoenaed antiwar protestors and their lawyers had said they would continue the insults, procedural objections and flamboyant tactics that marked Tuesday's opening day of hearings.

The hearings were in recess Wednesday in observance of the Jewish holiday, Yom Kippur.

Rubin, who was thrown out of an un-American activities committee hearing two years ago while wearing a Revolutionary War uniform, was ejected twice at Tuesday's hearing.

He was first turned away when showed up with bullet-studded belts draped across his shirtless chest. He was allowed back when he took off the ammunition belts.

Rubin and 13 of his companions were then ejected near the end of the hearing after they stood in silent protest against the committee.

In between, the lawyers, even though their clients weren't testifying, raised procedural objections 30 times. They were overruled every time.

The committee staffer and Chicago policemen who did testify said their investigations showed the demonstrations were aimed at achieving anarchy and were "compatible with the policies of Hanoi, Peking and Moscow."

The American Civil Liberties Union, a constant critic of the un-American activities committee, asked Washington's U.S. District Court Wednesday to halt the hearing. The civil liberties union protested the committee is unconstitutional.

Three persons accused of contempt of Congress during 1965 hearings into Communist activities in Illinois filed a similar suit after those hearings. The suit was turned down last June by the U.S. District Court in Chicago.

Five of the antiwar protesters also challenged federal antiriot statutes Tuesday in Chicago's U.S. District Court. The suit seeks to halt investigation of the convention disorders by a federal grand jury.

The contested statutes were contained in the 1968 Civil Rights Act.

Police, FBI Rejected In Bid On Search Warrant Of Farm

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland police and FBI agents here have been turned down in Washington in attempts to get a search warrant for an Ashtabula County farm, where authorities suspect guns and possibly bodies were hidden after the July 23 sniper slayings, The Cleveland Plain Dealer said today.

The newspaper said the denial came from the U.S. Attorney General in Washington and added:

"Sources in the U.S. Attorney's office in Cleveland said Washington said the FBI in Cleveland has not produced sufficient evidence for a warrant.

Federal agents had been looking for automatic weapons, evidence of premeditated riot plans, evidence of paramilitary training and evidence of guns obtained and transported illegally interstate.

Cleveland homicide detectives have been working on the missing bodies angle since three policemen and seven Negro civilians were killed in the shootings in the predominantly Negro Glenville area on the city's East Side.

"Our information was that the FBI felt there were weapons out there and possibly dead bodies," a Cleveland police officer said.

Cuyahoga County Coroner Samuel R. Gerber had the ruins of the bulldozed buildings sifted for evidence of two reported dead men after the shooting and burning in Glenville. None was found.

Police said their work in the investigation is finished. The FBI in Cleveland had no comment on its effort to obtain a search warrant for the farm in the Windsor Township area.

Ashtabula County Sheriff Tomas Fasula said he has not been working with police or the FBI on the investigation, but officials in the township area described the situation as "explosive."

One official called the area of investigation "a training ground for Cleveland riots."

Girl, 16, Killed As Bolt Strikes Practice Field

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Sixteen-year-old Amy Weaver of Silver Lake was killed Wednesday when a bolt of lightning hit the hockey practice field at Kent State University High School.

A school spokesman said the lightning knocked 45 girls and two instructors to the ground.

The pupils and instructors were treated for shock at Kent State University health center but all escaped injury, the spokesman added.

In Licking County two Newark High School sophomores were struck by lightning Wednesday as they left school for the day.

Rick Waddell, 15, of Newark, was in critical condition in Licking County Memorial Hospital with burns and respiratory system injuries. The other youth, William Honenberger, also 15, of Newark, was treated and released.

During the unsuccessful Penobscot expedition, Paul Revere was accused of being a coward and was removed from his command. Two years later, a court-martial cleared him of all charges made against him.

Road Report, Complaints Mark Industry Meeting

INDUSTRY — Road reports and various complaints were heard during a meeting of Industry Council Wednesday night.

James Muns, roads chairman, submitted a review of work completed in September, including patching, slagging and cutting brush along White Head Rd.

Charles Homan of Michael Baker Jr., Inc., engineering firm, said the H. R. Allen Co. should complete resurfacing of roads in Ohioview by Oct. 11.

Council authorized the fire department to purchase $999 worth of equipment.

William Ralph, chairman of the community planning commission, said that appraisals of recreational sites by Michael Van Doren, assessor, are not yet complete.

Council voted to retain Michael Baker Jr. for another year for planning service. Mayor Steve Suchanec will proclaim Oct. 13-19 as Traffic Safety Week in conjunction with the Beaver County program. He reported three accidents and 18 complaints investigated by police.

There were 2,194 miles logged on the cruiser. A letter was read from the Western Beaver County Board of Education for their "excellent work" with school bus traffic.

The borough secretary was instructed to write Centre Video to learn the target date for installation of a television tower to serve the area.

Mr. and Mrs. Mason Halbrook, who were represented by Atty. Rex Downe, appeared and charged that Patrolman Roy Hohenshell "acted in a manner unbecoming an officer." Council considered the complaint and on the advice of the solicitor, found it has no jurisdiction in the matter.

Where Did Protestors Get Money? Prober Asks

WASHINGTON (AP) — A member of a House panel staging a probe into street fighting during the Democratic convention says he wants to know where the demonstration organizers got their money.

Rep. Albert Watson of the House un-American activities subcommittee said he would subpoena records and financial statements if witnesses balk during testimony today.

Witnesses ordered to appear at the hearing included Abbie Hoffman and Jerry Rubin, leaders of the Yippies—Youth International Party—and David Dellinger, Rennie Davis, Thomas Hayden and Robert Greenblat of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam.

Watson, R-S.C., said Wednesday, "The violence in Chicago was planned months in advance, and only an exorbitant amount of money could guarantee the success of the student disruption in that city."

The demonstrations triggered a series of bloody clashes with police and National Guardsmen, who used clubs, Mace and tear gas to disperse the crowds.

The subpoenaed antiwar protestors and their lawyers had said they would continue the insults, procedural objections and flamboyant tactics that marked Tuesday's opening day of hearings.

The hearings were in recess Wednesday in observance of the Jewish holiday, Yom Kippur.

Rubin, who was thrown out of an un-American activities committee hearing two years ago while wearing a Revolutionary War uniform, was ejected twice at Tuesday's hearing.

He was first turned away when showed up with bullet-studded belts draped across his shirtless chest. He was allowed back when he took off the ammunition belts.

A double - ring ceremony on Sept. 21 united in marriage Miss Trudy Loch Brothers, daughter of Mr. ad Mrs. Harry R. Brothers, and Gary A. Crabtree, son of Mrs. Vallie Crabtree and the late Mr. Crabtree. They all are from Salineville.

The minister, Rick Beam, officiated for the candlelight service in the Church of Christ at Salineville. A wedding arch of white daisies and Englisy ivy highlighted the altar background of white gladioli, ferns and candelabra.

Mrs. Janet Hart was organist and Lynn Capper soloist. Gregory Denick of Syracuse, N. Y., and Danny Brothers served as acolytes.

THE BRIDE was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She wore an A-line style gown designed with a Chantilly lace bodice featuring a scoop neckline and long, tapered sleeves. The crepe skirt was fashioned with a lace silhouette in the front and a detachable, chapel - length train of lace edged with crepe.

Her three - tier veil of silk illusion was attached to a cluster of lace and peau petals trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a cascade of chrysanthemums, pompons, lily-of-the-valley and English ivy centered with a "cross" arrangement of pompons. The traditions were observed.

Mrs. Diane Staub of Indianapolis was matron of honor. Miss Terry Brothers, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid and Cathy Hanley, her cousin, flower girl.

They appeared in floor-length gowns of soft apricot designed in A-line silhouettes with square necklines and short sleeves. Floating panels offered back accent. Their Dior bow headpieces held veils of illusion. They carried semi - crescent arrangements of chrysanthemums, pompons tied with pumpkin streamers.

MRS. GARY CRABTREE

Linda Mae Allison Weds In Ceremonies At Church

Miss Linda Mae Allison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Allison of 243 Carolina Ave., Chester, became the bride of Michael E. Lukey, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lukey Jr. of New Salem, Pa., RD 1, Sept. 17 at St. Mary's Byzantine Catholic Church in New Salem.

Fr. Joseph Chornyak performed the ceremony.

THE BRIDE, given in marriage by her father, wore an ankle - length organza cage-styled gown with fitted crepe slip. The gown was fashioned with short sleeves and scooped neckline. Venise lace daisies circled the hemline of the skirt and also were carried out in the watteau train.

The bride's three - tier illusion veil was attached to a headpiece of organdy daisies topped with a bow and beaded with pearls. She carried a bouquet of white daisies and carnations.

Karen Conklin of Chester was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Judie Lukey of New Salem, sister of the bridegroom, Veronica Dolovacky of Chardon, Ohio, and Diane Graham of Chester. Tammy Springer of East Liverpool was flower girl.

THE ATTENDANTS were attired in floor - length gowns of yellow organza designed on cage - style lines, with bands of daisy trim on the cuffs of the full sleeves, neckline and down the front of the gown. Their headpieces matched the daisies and featured tiered veils.

The bride's mother was attired in a pink ensemble and the bridegroom's mother wore a beige and brown outfit. Both wore orchid corsages.

Joseph Rabosky of Baden, Pa., was best man and Richard Cooper of Waynesburg, Pa., Larry Allison of Chester, brother of the bride, and Bruce Gibbs, also of Chester, cousin of the bride, were ushers.

THE BRIDE, a 1965 graduate of Oak Glen High School, is a senior in the College of Industrial Engineering at West Virginia University. She is president of Alpha Pi Mu, honorary, and vice president of the American Institute of Industrial Engineers Organization.

Her husband, a 1964 graduate of German Township, received a bachelor of science degree in industrial engineering from West Virginia in 1968. He will do graduate work in air pollution control engineering and is an alumnus member of the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity. Both are employed by the Federal Bureau of Mines Petroleum Research in Morgantown.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

"Alice in Wonderland" and Curiosa Mathematica" were written by the same man, Charles Lutwidge Dodgson. Although Dodgson was known as a mathematician and logician, he is remembered for his works of whimsy written under the pseudonym Lewis Carroll. "Alice" was inspired by and written for Alice Liddell, a child of a friend.

SHIPPINGPORT — Members of the WSCS of the Greene Valley United Methodist Church signed their new charter Tuesday night at the church, with 13 present.

Mrs. Jack McCandless, president, opened the meeting with a reading on the purpose of the new WSCS. Mrs. Eugene Russell was in charge of the program, with the theme "Christ, the Giver of Life." A collection was taken to send to the Board of Missions.

A rummage sale will be held Monday through Wednesday at the old Martell building in Midland. with Mrs. Clarence Green in charge. Mrs. Robert Christy is chairman of the bazaar to be held Nov. 7 at the community building.

Lunch was served by Mrs. McCandless, Mrs. Clarence Green and Mrs. Thomas Green. The next meeting will be Nov. 6 at 7:30 p.m.

Christian Education Sunday was observed at the church, with students who were promoted to the Junior High group presented Bibles.

Recipients were Susan Hayward, Lou Ann Allison, Terry Cox and Cindy Beal. The Rev. Howard Burrell Jr. was in charge. Mrs. Jack McCandless presented the certificates.

Gilligan Claims Bid By Wallace 'Healthy' One

FREMONT, Ohio (AP) — Democratic senatorial candidate John J. Gilligan said Wednesday the challenge of third-party presidential candidate George C. Wallace was "healthy" in spite of "some distasteful overtones."

Speaking at a Sandusky County Democratic party ox roast, Gilligan said the support for the former Alabama governor throughout the country is "essentially a gesture of protest" against the system and the two major parties.

"The major parties better start talking to the people about the issues," Gilligan added.

He said if the Wallace candidacy forces voters to forget about party labels and this carries to other races on the ballot, "it could be a healthy thing."

The former Cincinnati Councilman said it was time the major parties began viewing the Wallace support for what it is.

"Some of it is racist," Gilligan added, "but a lot of it is protst because the major parties are not offering any solutions."

Gilligan said if Wallace selected Curtis E. LeMay as his running mate, it would simply add another "vehicle of protest" to the third-party ticket.

Wallace was to announce his running mate today in Pittsburgh and speculation centered around LeMay's name.

Linda Mae Allison Weds In Ceremonies At Church

Miss Linda Mae Allison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Allison of 243 Carolina Ave., Chester, became the bride of Michael E. Lukey, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lukey Jr. of New Salem, Pa., RD 1, Sept. 17 at St. Mary's Byzantine Catholic Church in New Salem.

Fr. Joseph Chornyak performed the ceremony.

THE BRIDE, given in marriage by her father, wore an ankle - length organza cage-styled gown with fitted crepe slip. The gown was fashioned with short sleeves and scooped neckline. Venise lace daisies circled the hemline of the skirt and also were carried out in the watteau train.

The bride's three - tier illusion veil was attached to a headpiece of organdy daisies topped with a bow and beaded with pearls. She carried a bouquet of white daisies and carnations.

Karen Conklin of Chester was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Judie Lukey of New Salem, sister of the bridegroom, Veronica Dolovacky of Chardon, Ohio, and Diane Graham of Chester. Tammy Springer of East Liverpool was flower girl.

THE ATTENDANTS were attired in floor - length gowns of yellow organza designed on cage - style lines, with bands of daisy trim on the cuffs of the full sleeves, neckline and down the front of the gown. Their headpieces matched the daisies and featured tiered veils.

The bride's mother was attired in a pink ensemble and the bridegroom's mother wore a beige and brown outfit. Both wore orchid corsages.

Joseph Rabosky of Baden, Pa., was best man and Richard Cooper of Waynesburg, Pa., Larry Allison of Chester, brother of the bride, and Bruce Gibbs, also of Chester, cousin of the bride, were ushers.

THE BRIDE, a 1965 graduate of Oak Glen High School, is a senior in the College of Industrial Engineering at West Virginia University. She is president of Alpha Pi Mu, honorary, and vice president of the American Institute of Industrial Engineers Organization.

Her husband, a 1964 graduate of German Township, received a bachelor of science degree in industrial engineering from West Virginia in 1968. He will do graduate work in air pollution control engineering and is an alumnus member of the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity. Both are employed by the Federal Bureau of Mines Petroleum Research in Morgantown.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

"Alice in Wonderland" and Curiosa Mathematica" were written by the same man, Charles Lutwidge Dodgson. Although Dodgson was known as a mathematician and logician, he is remembered for his works of whimsy written under the pseudonym Lewis Carroll. "Alice" was inspired by and written for Alice Liddell, a child of a friend.

SHIPPINGPORT — Members of the WSCS of the Greene Valley United Methodist Church signed their new charter Tuesday night at the church, with 13 present.

Mrs. Jack McCandless, president, opened the meeting with a reading on the purpose of the new WSCS. Mrs. Eugene Russell was in charge of the program, with the theme "Christ, the Giver of Life." A collection was taken to send to the Board of Missions.

A rummage sale will be held Monday through Wednesday at the old Martell building in Midland. with Mrs. Clarence Green in charge. Mrs. Robert Christy is chairman of the bazaar to be held Nov. 7 at the community building.

Lunch was served by Mrs. McCandless, Mrs. Clarence Green and Mrs. Thomas Green. The next meeting will be Nov. 6 at 7:30 p.m.

Gilligan Claims Bid By Wallace 'Healthy' One

FREMONT, Ohio (AP) — Democratic senatorial candidate John J. Gilligan said Wednesday the challenge of third-party presidential candidate George C. Wallace was "healthy" in spite of "some distasteful overtones."

Speaking at a Sandusky County Democratic party ox roast, Gilligan said the support for the former Alabama governor throughout the country is "essentially a gesture of protest" against the system and the two major parties.

"The major parties better start talking to the people about the issues," Gilligan added.

He said if the Wallace candidacy forces voters to forget about party labels and this carries to other races on the ballot, "it could be a healthy thing."

The former Cincinnati Councilman said it was time the major parties began viewing the Wallace support for what it is.

"Some of it is racist," Gilligan added, "but a lot of it is protst because the major parties are not offering any solutions."

Gilligan said if Wallace selected Curtis E. LeMay as his running mate, it would simply add another "vehicle of protest" to the third-party ticket.

Wallace was to announce his running mate today in Pittsburgh and speculation centered around LeMay's name.

East End Unit Names Staley

Robert Staley of Etururia St., a postal employe, was named temporary chairman of a new East End civic organization during a meeting at the IOOF Lodge hall Wednesday night.

Clyde Boggess of Harvey Ave. was appointed temporary secretary - treasurer of the organization, which plans to obtain a non-profit charter and seek to operate the former Horace Mann School as a community center.

Bert Willison of Harvey Ave. was selected as chairman of a committee to meet with Council to discuss East End and citywide matters, and was named chairman of a school committee to confer with the board of education about obtaining the school building.

Paul Boggess was named chairman of the bylaws committee. Permanent officers and trustees are to be chosen when the charter is authorized by the Ohio Secretary of State.

Discussion was held on zoning, special programs for youth and other projects.

The group will meet next Wednesday night at 7:30 at the lodge hall. Meetings are planned on alternate Wednesdays afterward, Willison said.

Police, Firemen Back On Job In Mansfield Rift

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Mansfield policemen and firemen returned to work Wednesday afternoon after a meeting between city employes' representatives and Mayor Robert S. Lenley.

Non - uniformed employes reported for work this morning.

About 400 policemen, firemen, garbagemen and street and water department employes had called in sick for two days.

The mayor agreed to call in a federal mediator to help settle the dispute which involved rejection by the city employes of the pay raises approved by City Council Monday night.

Therapy Programs Given

United Fund Helps Clinic

This young patient afflicted with Cerebral Palsy is trying his skill on a bicylce — one type of therapy which helps these children strengthen muscles.

Mrs. Leonart Tost, supervisor of physical therapy at the clinic, works with the children, not only to help them strengthen muscles, but to teach them balance and functional activities such as walking, sitting and dressing.

The clinic also conducts nursery school sessions Tuesday and Thursday afternoons for the cerebral palsied children. Mrs. Everett Ludwig, instructor, is assisted by members of the Junior Women's Club and the East Liverpool Key Club.

The United Cerebral Palsy Clinic is one of the 15 agencies benefitting from the United Fund drive which will start Monday.

Defense

amendments Wednesday, one to block funds for the Semi-Automatic Ground Environment System and the Airborne Warning and Control System and the Air- and Control System, the other aimed at limiting helicopter production.

Only five other senators backed the Pennsylvania Democrat as he lost 60 to 6 on the SAGE-AWACS amendment, and only Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., joined him on the 65-2 vote against his helicopter proposal.

Although the bill carries a total of $700.2 million for the Sentinel, including $312.8 million in research and development funds that Cooper's amendment would have spared, Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., said during the open portion of the debate that only $70 million would be spent in the current fiscal year, the rest in future years.

However, Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford has already announced that the Pentagon will press forward with Sentinel, exempting it from the $6 billion spending cut ordered by Congress last spring when it voted the 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

Cooper called for the closed session so that detailed, classified questions could be asked by opponents of the project.

The last such secret session was on July 14, 1966, when the Senate was considering its watchdog procedures for the Central Intelligence Agency.

Both Cooper and supporters of Sentinel agreed during the debate that it is intended to be the first stage of a defense against possible Soviet missile attack, as well as to provide a defense against a possible Chinese attack.

The full anti-Soviet system has been estimated at $30 billion to $40 billion. But Cooper said testimony this year before the Senate Appropriations Committee indicated the eventual cost might be closer to $70 billion.

No decision has yet been made to proceed with the full ABM system.

Ohio Air Guard Group Slated For Release In June

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio Air National Guard group mobilized last winter after the Pueblo incident is among units to be released from active duty by next June 30.

The Pentagon announced Wednesday night that all 16,000 Air National Guardsmen and reservists called to active duty in January and May will be returned to civilian life.

The demobilization plans hinge, the Pentagon cautioned, on the assumption that "unforeseen circumstances" do not arise.

The Ohio unit, the 121st Tactical Fighter Group from Lockbourne Air Force Base near Columbus, has been on assignment at Kun San Air Base, South Korea, since July.

Toastmasters Club Sets 'Crucible Night'

A "Crucible Night" dinner meeting will be held Oct. 23 at 6:30 at the Ohio Valley Gas Co. office by the East Liverpool Toastmasters Club.

George Beck received the most improved speaker award and Vincent Maola the bull-thrower award during this week's meeting.

Reservists

He has been in Vietnam since April.

Replacements for the demobilized citizen-airmen will have to come from the ranks of the regular Air Force.

"As a result, some airmen will be selected to return to Southeast Asia for a second tour involuntarily sooner than would have been otherwise necessary," the Air Force said.

The Navy announced more than two weeks ago that it will deactivate six reserve squadrons and 600 officers and men by Nov. 1. They, too, were mustered in the wake of the Pueblo seizure. About 1,000 reserve Seabees also are on active duty.

But the Army said it does not now plan to release any of the 20,000 men it called to the colors "except upon expiration of their respective terms of service."

"Only when it is determined that a need for these units no longer exists will they be released prior to the terms of service for which they were called to duty," the Army said after the Air Force move was disclosed.

Six Air Guard squadrons were shipped to Vietnam and South Korea during the spring and summer.

Guard pilots with the four squadrons of Korean War vintage F100 fighter squadrons already have logged more than 6,000 combat missions. Two have been killed in action. Some 300 medals have been won by Guard fliers.

Clifford said the Vietnam squadrons and two assigned to defend South Korea will be replaced by regular Air Force squadrons, "thus maintaining our force posture in that area at its present level."

First to be released will be some 1,500 individual Guardsmen and reservists who meet certain special criteria.

Four squadrons, a medical evacuation outfit and three support units, will be demobilized by the end of 1968.

Some critics, including congressmen, have attacked the administration for calling up the guardsmen and reservists, contending the Pueblo incident was used as a convenient excuse to beef up forces.

Defending that mobilization, the Air Force said it was "of necessity based on an assessment of the potential for military force requirements," and in "a climate of Southeast Asia escalation intensified by the Korean Pueblo incident."

Several groups of Army reservists are fighting, right up to the Supreme Court, the legal basis for their call to active duty.

The Air Force said some members of its reserve forces have filed civil suits seeking release from active duty. Some of these suits claim the reservist's agreement with the government expired before they were mobilized.

Finger Cut Off In Saw Mishap

A St. Clair Ave. man whose finger was amputated on a power saw Wednesday at home was admitted to Osteopathic Hospital, where two others were treated.

Charles R. Brookes of 1035 St. Clair Ave. is "satisfactory" today with the finger injury.

Taylor Injured In Area Mishap

Theodore N. Taylor, 39, of 416 E. Lincoln Way, principal at Baver Local High School, suffered back injuries this morning when his station wagon and a truck were involved in a collision near the school.

He was treated and released at City Hospital.

The Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon said Taylor was headed north about 7:45 when he halted to turn left and his car was rammed by a northbound truck operated by Glenn E. Mays, 25, of East Liverpool RD 1.

Mays was cited for failing to stop in the assured clear distance.

East End Unit Names Staley

Robert Staley of Etururia St., a postal employe, was named temporary chairman of a new East End civic organization during a meeting at the IOOF Lodge hall Wednesday night.

Clyde Boggess of Harvey Ave. was appointed temporary secretary - treasurer of the organization, which plans to obtain a non-profit charter and seek to operate the former Horace Mann School as a community center.

Bert Willison of Harvey Ave. was selected as chairman of a committee to meet with Council to discuss East End and citywide matters, and was named chairman of a school committee to confer with the board of education about obtaining the school building.

Paul Boggess was named chairman of the bylaws committee. Permanent officers and trustees are to be chosen when the charter is authorized by the Ohio Secretary of State.

Discussion was held on zoning, special programs for youth and other projects.

The group will meet next Wednesday night at 7:30 at the lodge hall. Meetings are planned on alternate Wednesdays afterward, Willison said.

Police, Firemen Back On Job In Mansfield Rift

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Mansfield policemen and firemen returned to work Wednesday afternoon after a meeting between city employes' representatives and Mayor Robert S. Lenley.

Non - uniformed employes reported for work this morning.

About 400 policemen, firemen, garbagemen and street and water department employes had called in sick for two days.

The mayor agreed to call in a federal mediator to help settle the dispute which involved rejection by the city employes of the pay raises approved by City Council Monday night.

Therapy Programs Given

United Fund Helps Clinic

This young patient afflicted with Cerebral Palsy is trying his skill on a bicylce — one type of therapy which helps these children strengthen muscles.

Mrs. Leonart Tost, supervisor of physical therapy at the clinic, works with the children, not only to help them strengthen muscles, but to teach them balance and functional activities such as walking, sitting and dressing.

The clinic also conducts nursery school sessions Tuesday and Thursday afternoons for the cerebral palsied children. Mrs. Everett Ludwig, instructor, is assisted by members of the Junior Women's Club and the East Liverpool Key Club.

The United Cerebral Palsy Clinic is one of the 15 agencies benefitting from the United Fund drive which will start Monday.

Defense

amendments Wednesday, one to block funds for the Semi-Automatic Ground Environment System and the Airborne Warning and Control System and the Air- and Control System, the other aimed at limiting helicopter production.

Only five other senators backed the Pennsylvania Democrat as he lost 60 to 6 on the SAGE-AWACS amendment, and only Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., joined him on the 65-2 vote against his helicopter proposal.

Although the bill carries a total of $700.2 million for the Sentinel, including $312.8 million in research and development funds that Cooper's amendment would have spared, Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., said during the open portion of the debate that only $70 million would be spent in the current fiscal year, the rest in future years.

However, Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford has already announced that the Pentagon will press forward with Sentinel, exempting it from the $6 billion spending cut ordered by Congress last spring when it voted the 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

Cooper called for the closed session so that detailed, classified questions could be asked by opponents of the project.

The last such secret session was on July 14, 1966, when the Senate was considering its watchdog procedures for the Central Intelligence Agency.

Both Cooper and supporters of Sentinel agreed during the debate that it is intended to be the first stage of a defense against possible Soviet missile attack, as well as to provide a defense against a possible Chinese attack.

The full anti-Soviet system has been estimated at $30 billion to $40 billion. But Cooper said testimony this year before the Senate Appropriations Committee indicated the eventual cost might be closer to $70 billion.

No decision has yet been made to proceed with the full ABM system.

Ohio Air Guard Group Slated For Release In June

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio Air National Guard group mobilized last winter after the Pueblo incident is among units to be released from active duty by next June 30.

The Pentagon announced Wednesday night that all 16,000 Air National Guardsmen and reservists called to active duty in January and May will be returned to civilian life.

The demobilization plans hinge, the Pentagon cautioned, on the assumption that "unforeseen circumstances" do not arise.

The Ohio unit, the 121st Tactical Fighter Group from Lockbourne Air Force Base near Columbus, has been on assignment at Kun San Air Base, South Korea, since July.

Toastmasters Club Sets 'Crucible Night'

A "Crucible Night" dinner meeting will be held Oct. 23 at 6:30 at the Ohio Valley Gas Co. office by the East Liverpool Toastmasters Club.

George Beck received the most improved speaker award and Vincent Maola the bull-thrower award during this week's meeting.

Reservists

He has been in Vietnam since April.

Replacements for the demobilized citizen-airmen will have to come from the ranks of the regular Air Force.

"As a result, some airmen will be selected to return to Southeast Asia for a second tour involuntarily sooner than would have been otherwise necessary," the Air Force said.

The Navy announced more than two weeks ago that it will deactivate six reserve squadrons and 600 officers and men by Nov. 1. They, too, were mustered in the wake of the Pueblo seizure. About 1,000 reserve Seabees also are on active duty.

But the Army said it does not now plan to release any of the 20,000 men it called to the colors "except upon expiration of their respective terms of service."

"Only when it is determined that a need for these units no longer exists will they be released prior to the terms of service for which they were called to duty," the Army said after the Air Force move was disclosed.

Six Air Guard squadrons were shipped to Vietnam and South Korea during the spring and summer.

Guard pilots with the four squadrons of Korean War vintage F100 fighter squadrons already have logged more than 6,000 combat missions. Two have been killed in action. Some 300 medals have been won by Guard fliers.

Clifford said the Vietnam squadrons and two assigned to defend South Korea will be replaced by regular Air Force squadrons, "thus maintaining our force posture in that area at its present level."

First to be released will be some 1,500 individual Guardsmen and reservists who meet certain special criteria.

Four squadrons, a medical evacuation outfit and three support units, will be demobilized by the end of 1968.

Some critics, including congressmen, have attacked the administration for calling up the guardsmen and reservists, contending the Pueblo incident was used as a convenient excuse to beef up forces.

Defending that mobilization, the Air Force said it was "of necessity based on an assessment of the potential for military force requirements," and in "a climate of Southeast Asia escalation intensified by the Korean Pueblo incident."

Several groups of Army reservists are fighting, right up to the Supreme Court, the legal basis for their call to active duty.

The Air Force said some members of its reserve forces have filed civil suits seeking release from active duty. Some of these suits claim the reservist's agreement with the government expired before they were mobilized.

Finger Cut Off In Saw Mishap

A St. Clair Ave. man whose finger was amputated on a power saw Wednesday at home was admitted to Osteopathic Hospital, where two others were treated.

Charles R. Brookes of 1035 St. Clair Ave. is "satisfactory" today with the finger injury.

Taylor Injured In Area Mishap

Theodore N. Taylor, 39, of 416 E. Lincoln Way, principal at Baver Local High School, suffered back injuries this morning when his station wagon and a truck were involved in a collision near the school.

He was treated and released at City Hospital.

The Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon said Taylor was headed north about 7:45 when he halted to turn left and his car was rammed by a northbound truck operated by Glenn E. Mays, 25, of East Liverpool RD 1.

Mays was cited for failing to stop in the assured clear distance.

Peru's Army Overthrows Government

Soldiers stormed the presidential palace shortly after 2 a.m. and emerged a short time later with Belaunde, dressed in a blue suit and shouting in Spanish "You are traitors."

The coup took place about 12 hours after Belaunde had installed a new 11-member Cabinet—the seventh in his five-year regime.

All was calm on Lima streets and Peruvians awoke on a bleak misty day to find that the military had taken over, as they did five years ago—that time with the result that Belaunde took office.

Belaunde had disappointed even his most enthusiastic followers, however, and it had become apparent in recent weeks that a coup was inevitable.

The present political crisis erupted following the signing of a new contract with International Petroleum Corp., a subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey.

Belaunde's opponents claimed Peru had come out on the short end of the negotiation and the former head of the Peruvian Oil Agency claimed the last page of the contract had been lost. He said this page contained his personal notations that guaranteed payment in dollar equivalents regardless of fluctuation of the Peruvian soil.

Streets and highways in the Virgin Islands are more crowded than ever with motor vehicles. As of Jan. 1, 1968, the islands had a total of 13,478 cars, trucks and buses registered, compared with 11,287 vehicles the preceding year.

A trademark must be in actual use by the company in interstate or foreign commerce at the time application for registration with the U.S. Patent Office is made.

Ex-Reporter Is Convicted Of Blackmail

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "Guilty" replied the jury foreman 40 times in convicting former reporter Harry J. Karafin of blackmail and unlawful solicitation.

Karafin stood expressionless Wednesday during the 10 minutes of responses to each bill of indictment, 20 charging him with blackmail and 20 with unlawful solicitation by an employe.

Lawyers for the former Philadelphia Inquirer reporter were granted seven days to petition for a new trial. Sentencing was deferred pending action on the motion.

Judge Robert N. C. Nix Jr. raised Karafin's bail from $5,000 to $30,000.

Karafin, 53, went on trial Sept. 9. He was accused of using his position as an investigative reporter for the Inquirer to shakedown Philadelphia businesses and individuals.

The director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation serves at the pleasure of the attorney general, who makes the appointment.

Members of the Society of Friends came to be called Quakers from a speech by the founder, George Fox, in which he called upon his listeners to "tremble at the name of the Lord." A magistrate, Justice Gervase Bennett, thereupon called their group the "Quakers."

Baskets Planned By Newell Group

Plans were made for making fruit baskets for Thanksgiving when the Newell Juniorettes met Monday night with Miss Sharon Mills.

The baskets will be given to a nursing home, Miss Gail Prestmo, president, said.

Miss Sherry Fox was enrolled as a member.

Peru's Army Overthrows Government

Soldiers stormed the presidential palace shortly after 2 a.m. and emerged a short time later with Belaunde, dressed in a blue suit and shouting in Spanish "You are traitors."

The coup took place about 12 hours after Belaunde had installed a new 11-member Cabinet—the seventh in his five-year regime.

All was calm on Lima streets and Peruvians awoke on a bleak misty day to find that the military had taken over, as they did five years ago—that time with the result that Belaunde took office.

Belaunde had disappointed even his most enthusiastic followers, however, and it had become apparent in recent weeks that a coup was inevitable.

The present political crisis erupted following the signing of a new contract with International Petroleum Corp., a subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey.

Belaunde's opponents claimed Peru had come out on the short end of the negotiation and the former head of the Peruvian Oil Agency claimed the last page of the contract had been lost. He said this page contained his personal notations that guaranteed payment in dollar equivalents regardless of fluctuation of the Peruvian soil.

Streets and highways in the Virgin Islands are more crowded than ever with motor vehicles. As of Jan. 1, 1968, the islands had a total of 13,478 cars, trucks and buses registered, compared with 11,287 vehicles the preceding year.

A trademark must be in actual use by the company in interstate or foreign commerce at the time application for registration with the U.S. Patent Office is made.

Ex-Reporter Is Convicted Of Blackmail

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "Guilty" replied the jury foreman 40 times in convicting former reporter Harry J. Karafin of blackmail and unlawful solicitation.

Karafin stood expressionless Wednesday during the 10 minutes of responses to each bill of indictment, 20 charging him with blackmail and 20 with unlawful solicitation by an employe.

Lawyers for the former Philadelphia Inquirer reporter were granted seven days to petition for a new trial. Sentencing was deferred pending action on the motion.

Judge Robert N. C. Nix Jr. raised Karafin's bail from $5,000 to $30,000.

Karafin, 53, went on trial Sept. 9. He was accused of using his position as an investigative reporter for the Inquirer to shakedown Philadelphia businesses and individuals.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Salt Cleans Dog Stains

DEAR HELOISE: If your dog is not yet housebroken, accidents will happen.

To remove a wet puddle from a wool rug, wipe up as much as possible, then just pour ordinary table salt on it.

Heloise

Cover the whole spot and put plenty on. I put it on about a half-inch high.

Leave it on until the spot is thoroughly dry. Takes about a day or two, depending on the amount of liquid that is there.

When it is dry, take your sweeper and pick up the salt. Result? No trace of the spot whatsoever and what's more, no odor.

MRS. BETTY SCHWEITZER.

Friends, I do believe Betty has found the answer!

We've been testing this for some time now and the results are truly fantastic!

It's best to first put down some old terry cloth towels (or paper ones) over the stain and step on them until the excess moisture has been absorbed. Then just pour on that salt (like you are filling the shaker, not sprinkling an egg) until it completely covers the stain, being sure to rub some down into the pile.

After the salt dries completely (in a day or so), vacuum it up and you'll not believe your eyes. We didn't find a sign of a ring or spot!

Now you may think pouring on so much salt will be expensive, but doesn't that beat buying a new carpet? Some stains, if not taken care of immediately, are permanent. Go ahead and test it for yourselves. I'll bet you won't ever be without an extra box of salt just for accidents like this.

Remember, however, to empty that vacuum cleaner gals, and wipe off the bottom or section that came in contact with the salt. That salt may rust your machine — especially in damp weather.

After testing this ourselves, we asked the National Institute of Rug Cleaning to do so, and here's their answer:

"The National Institute of Rug Cleaning has conducted tests on various absorbent materials and found table salt to rate very high.

"After all excess liquid has been removed, the salt should be sprinkled on and worked into the pile. This allows the salt to absorb more liquid. Sufficient salt should be added to absorb all of the liquid and as the top of the salt becomes wet continue adding salt."

"When the area has dried completely, vacuum out all salt.

A bushel of red roses to you, Mrs. Betty Schweitzer, (and to the N.I.R.C.) for your answer to a dog lover's lament!

DEAR HELOISE: After all these years I have learned that if you wind a clock too tightly and it refuses to run, all you have to do is release the alarm 'til it unwinds. To think I used to dismantle the clock to try to release the spring!

Of course, the alarm on your clock would have to work on the SAME spring for you to do this.

MR. E.

DEAR HELOISE: I am a small woman . . . but I like to wear my skirts just covering my knees.

When people ask me why I don't wear the fashionable short skirts, I tell them, "Oh, but I DO! I just prefer to buy them at the Tall Girls' Shop!" (For me, a tall girl's mini-skirt is just about right . . .)

SHIRLEY HACKETT.

DEAR HELOISE: I got so tired of going back into the bathroom to stop the water running in the tank when the plunger didn't slide down the rod.

So, I grabbed the first thing I could find — which was a cake of soap and rubbed it along the stopper rod. Lo and behold, it did the trick.

ESTHER MAE.

If the soap washes off and the rod sticks again, rub some petroleum jelly on it and it will last longer.

You can also use a piece of steel wool on the rod to remove the accumulated minerals.

HELOISE.

Raps Third-Party Candidate

Nixon Prepares To Invade Wallace Dixie Stronghold

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, preparing to invade the Southern stronghold of George C. Wallace, says the solution to America's problems "Isn't quite as simple" as the third-party candidate implies.

The Republican presidential nominee, who seldom mentions Wallace by name, stages a major show in Atlanta, Ga., tonight in his drive for southern votes.

He goes on a television program to be shown in Wallace's own Alabama and 10 other states where third-party sentiment is said to be running strong.

While Nixon insists a direct campaign against Wallace would only enhance the third-party candidate's political stature, he did say, somewhat jokingly in Norfolk, Va., Wednesday night, that the former Alabama governor might run ahead of Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey.

While only a quip, it was a departure from Nixon insistence that the race is between two men, the major party nominees.

When a mention of Humphrey's name brought a few cheers and some boos from a Norfolk crowd of about 5,000 people, Nixon remarked:

The 11 states on Nixon's television list tonight are Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee and Maryland.

His major thrust is to fend off Wallace in states where the third party contender now is considered by southern politicians to be his chief rival, states such as North Carolina, Virginia and Tennessee.

Nixon has campaigned in all three. Virginia was Wednesday's target. In Norfolk, the Republican tackled Humphrey by name, Wallace by implication.

"If you don't like Humphrey's policy today," Nixon said, "wait 'til tomorrow."

Nixon, in a Navy town, suggested that the Democrats have permitted a "submarine gap" to develop, giving the Soviet Union an advantage in that field of weaponry.

He said the next eight years will be the period of greatest danger of world war because of the threat of growing Soviet power and because the Communist Chinese will be developing an independent nuclear capability.

"I've heard one candidate suggest, 'well, all you have to do is go out and get all these State Department bureaucrats and throw their briefcases into the Potomac,'" Nixon said.

That idea came from Wallace, although it originally was a reference to education officials, not diplomats.

"Let me say this," Nixon said, "It takes more than just being against what has happened to solve the problems of the country. It's a question of what you're for.

"The problem isn't quite as simple as throwing the diplomats' briefcases into the Potomac."

"I wish it were simple," he said. "I wish I could just stand up here and say 'well, if a man's for peace elect him president' . . . I know that everybody likes a simple solution, and believe me, I want to be elected."

But Nixon said he cannot offer easy solutions because there are none.

Saxbe Cites Ohio For Achievement By Cooperation

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — GOP Senate candidate William B. Saxbe today cited Ohio's case as an instance of what cooperation between government, industry and labor can achieve in a private enterprise society.

Saxbe quoted U.S. Labor Department statistics to show that the average Ohio workers took home $1,200 more every year than his opposite numbers in all other states. The candidate attributed this to Gov. James A. Rhodes' drive for more and better jobs in Ohio.

Ohio's unemployment rate is 3.1 per cent, the nation's 4 per cent, Saxbe noted, and said that an estimated 522,000 new jobs have been created in Ohio in the last five years.

Saxbe argued that Ohio's example demonstrated that not more government programs, but more government cooperation and leadership to promote initiative and industry, are the answers to today's needs.

Saxbe canceled a student rally at the University of Dayton Wednesday rather than cross the picket lines of striking cafeteria workers.

College Reveals 2nd Part Of Development

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — The $4.5 million second phase of the centennial plan of development at Wilmington College was announced Wednsday by president James M. Read who said more than half the funds would go for academic improvement.

Funds will be raised during the next five years from the federal government and from solicitations.

About $2 million, Read said, will be used for construction and renovation. The rest of the money is for academic development.

Man Shot Resisting Arrest Dies In Akron

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — An Akron man shot by a Summit County sheriff's detective after resisting arrest died early today in Akron General Hospital.

The sheriff's department said he was shot Monday afternoon by detective Robert Martin when Denson broke away and ran after Martin had arrested him on a nonsupport charge.

The shooting occurred during a chase of several blocks in the downtown area. Martin said he fired at Denson after Denson had ignored his commands to halt and a warning shot.

Akron Man Shot At Headquarters Of Cyclists Dies

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A 27-year-old Akron man shot at the headquarters of a motorcycle gang called the Misfits died early today in Akron General Hospital.

Police said Clarence Lassley was shot early Saturday when he drove into the driveway at the gang's headquarters on Collier Road by mistake.

Lassley's companion, 43-year-old Joe Ragland, of Akron, ran when the shooting started and escaped injury.

Two members of the gang—Joseph M. Kish III, 23, and Billy S. Puett, 29, both of Akron—pleaded innocent in Municipal Court Tuesday to charges of shooting to kill and shooting to wound. They were bound over to the Summit County grand jury and their bonds were continued at $25,000 each.

Lassley was wounded in the chest, abdomen and left leg. Police said he had been shot with a rifle and a shotgun.

Seven other members of the motorcycle gang, including three women, were arrested on charges of suspicion, but six were released later. The case of one woman was continued when she failed to appear in court.

Pittsburgh Air Guard Unit To Be Released

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A Pittsburgh-based Air National Guard unit mobilized in the wake of the Pueblo crisis will be released from active duty by the end of the year.

The Pentagon announced Wednesday night that all 16,000 Air National Guardsmen and reservists activated in January and May will be returned to civilian life by next June 30.

The state unit, the 171st aeromedical airlift group, which operated from Greater Pittsburgh Airport, is among four units scheduled to be released by Dec. 31. Exact dates were not given.

The Pentagon said the plans would be subject to change if "unforseen circumstances" arose.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Salt Cleans Dog Stains

DEAR HELOISE: If your dog is not yet housebroken, accidents will happen.

To remove a wet puddle from a wool rug, wipe up as much as possible, then just pour ordinary table salt on it.

Heloise

Cover the whole spot and put plenty on. I put it on about a half-inch high.

Leave it on until the spot is thoroughly dry. Takes about a day or two, depending on the amount of liquid that is there.

When it is dry, take your sweeper and pick up the salt. Result? No trace of the spot whatsoever and what's more, no odor.

MRS. BETTY SCHWEITZER.

Friends, I do believe Betty has found the answer!

We've been testing this for some time now and the results are truly fantastic!

It's best to first put down some old terry cloth towels (or paper ones) over the stain and step on them until the excess moisture has been absorbed. Then just pour on that salt (like you are filling the shaker, not sprinkling an egg) until it completely covers the stain, being sure to rub some down into the pile.

After the salt dries completely (in a day or so), vacuum it up and you'll not believe your eyes. We didn't find a sign of a ring or spot!

Now you may think pouring on so much salt will be expensive, but doesn't that beat buying a new carpet? Some stains, if not taken care of immediately, are permanent. Go ahead and test it for yourselves. I'll bet you won't ever be without an extra box of salt just for accidents like this.

Remember, however, to empty that vacuum cleaner gals, and wipe off the bottom or section that came in contact with the salt. That salt may rust your machine — especially in damp weather.

After testing this ourselves, we asked the National Institute of Rug Cleaning to do so, and here's their answer:

"The National Institute of Rug Cleaning has conducted tests on various absorbent materials and found table salt to rate very high.

"After all excess liquid has been removed, the salt should be sprinkled on and worked into the pile. This allows the salt to absorb more liquid. Sufficient salt should be added to absorb all of the liquid and as the top of the salt becomes wet continue adding salt."

"When the area has dried completely, vacuum out all salt.

A bushel of red roses to you, Mrs. Betty Schweitzer, (and to the N.I.R.C.) for your answer to a dog lover's lament!

DEAR HELOISE: After all these years I have learned that if you wind a clock too tightly and it refuses to run, all you have to do is release the alarm 'til it unwinds. To think I used to dismantle the clock to try to release the spring!

Of course, the alarm on your clock would have to work on the SAME spring for you to do this.

MR. E.

DEAR HELOISE: I am a small woman . . . but I like to wear my skirts just covering my knees.

When people ask me why I don't wear the fashionable short skirts, I tell them, "Oh, but I DO! I just prefer to buy them at the Tall Girls' Shop!" (For me, a tall girl's mini-skirt is just about right . . .)

SHIRLEY HACKETT.

DEAR HELOISE: I got so tired of going back into the bathroom to stop the water running in the tank when the plunger didn't slide down the rod.

So, I grabbed the first thing I could find — which was a cake of soap and rubbed it along the stopper rod. Lo and behold, it did the trick.

ESTHER MAE.

If the soap washes off and the rod sticks again, rub some petroleum jelly on it and it will last longer.

You can also use a piece of steel wool on the rod to remove the accumulated minerals.

HELOISE.

Raps Third-Party Candidate

Nixon Prepares To Invade Wallace Dixie Stronghold

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, preparing to invade the Southern stronghold of George C. Wallace, says the solution to America's problems "Isn't quite as simple" as the third-party candidate implies.

The Republican presidential nominee, who seldom mentions Wallace by name, stages a major show in Atlanta, Ga., tonight in his drive for southern votes.

He goes on a television program to be shown in Wallace's own Alabama and 10 other states where third-party sentiment is said to be running strong.

While Nixon insists a direct campaign against Wallace would only enhance the third-party candidate's political stature, he did say, somewhat jokingly in Norfolk, Va., Wednesday night, that the former Alabama governor might run ahead of Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey.

While only a quip, it was a departure from Nixon insistence that the race is between two men, the major party nominees.

When a mention of Humphrey's name brought a few cheers and some boos from a Norfolk crowd of about 5,000 people, Nixon remarked:

The 11 states on Nixon's television list tonight are Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee and Maryland.

His major thrust is to fend off Wallace in states where the third party contender now is considered by southern politicians to be his chief rival, states such as North Carolina, Virginia and Tennessee.

Nixon has campaigned in all three. Virginia was Wednesday's target. In Norfolk, the Republican tackled Humphrey by name, Wallace by implication.

"If you don't like Humphrey's policy today," Nixon said, "wait 'til tomorrow."

Nixon, in a Navy town, suggested that the Democrats have permitted a "submarine gap" to develop, giving the Soviet Union an advantage in that field of weaponry.

He said the next eight years will be the period of greatest danger of world war because of the threat of growing Soviet power and because the Communist Chinese will be developing an independent nuclear capability.

"I've heard one candidate suggest, 'well, all you have to do is go out and get all these State Department bureaucrats and throw their briefcases into the Potomac,'" Nixon said.

That idea came from Wallace, although it originally was a reference to education officials, not diplomats.

"Let me say this," Nixon said, "It takes more than just being against what has happened to solve the problems of the country. It's a question of what you're for.

"The problem isn't quite as simple as throwing the diplomats' briefcases into the Potomac."

"I wish it were simple," he said. "I wish I could just stand up here and say 'well, if a man's for peace elect him president' . . . I know that everybody likes a simple solution, and believe me, I want to be elected."

But Nixon said he cannot offer easy solutions because there are none.

Saxbe Cites Ohio For Achievement By Cooperation

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — GOP Senate candidate William B. Saxbe today cited Ohio's case as an instance of what cooperation between government, industry and labor can achieve in a private enterprise society.

Saxbe quoted U.S. Labor Department statistics to show that the average Ohio workers took home $1,200 more every year than his opposite numbers in all other states. The candidate attributed this to Gov. James A. Rhodes' drive for more and better jobs in Ohio.

Ohio's unemployment rate is 3.1 per cent, the nation's 4 per cent, Saxbe noted, and said that an estimated 522,000 new jobs have been created in Ohio in the last five years.

Saxbe argued that Ohio's example demonstrated that not more government programs, but more government cooperation and leadership to promote initiative and industry, are the answers to today's needs.

College Reveals 2nd Part Of Development

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — The $4.5 million second phase of the centennial plan of development at Wilmington College was announced Wednsday by president James M. Read who said more than half the funds would go for academic improvement.

Funds will be raised during the next five years from the federal government and from solicitations.

About $2 million, Read said, will be used for construction and renovation. The rest of the money is for academic development.

Man Shot Resisting Arrest Dies In Akron

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — An Akron man shot by a Summit County sheriff's detective after resisting arrest died early today in Akron General Hospital.

The sheriff's department said he was shot Monday afternoon by detective Robert Martin when Denson broke away and ran after Martin had arrested him on a nonsupport charge.

The shooting occurred during a chase of several blocks in the downtown area. Martin said he fired at Denson after Denson had ignored his commands to halt and a warning shot.

Akron Man Shot At Headquarters Of Cyclists Dies

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A 27-year-old Akron man shot at the headquarters of a motorcycle gang called the Misfits died early today in Akron General Hospital.

Police said Clarence Lassley was shot early Saturday when he drove into the driveway at the gang's headquarters on Collier Road by mistake.

Lassley's companion, 43-year-old Joe Ragland, of Akron, ran when the shooting started and escaped injury.

Two members of the gang—Joseph M. Kish III, 23, and Billy S. Puett, 29, both of Akron—pleaded innocent in Municipal Court Tuesday to charges of shooting to kill and shooting to wound. They were bound over to the Summit County grand jury and their bonds were continued at $25,000 each.

Lassley was wounded in the chest, abdomen and left leg. Police said he had been shot with a rifle and a shotgun.

Seven other members of the motorcycle gang, including three women, were arrested on charges of suspicion, but six were released later. The case of one woman was continued when she failed to appear in court.

Pittsburgh Air Guard Unit To Be Released

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A Pittsburgh-based Air National Guard unit mobilized in the wake of the Pueblo crisis will be released from active duty by the end of the year.

The Pentagon announced Wednesday night that all 16,000 Air National Guardsmen and reservists activated in January and May will be returned to civilian life by next June 30.

The state unit, the 171st aeromedical airlift group, which operated from Greater Pittsburgh Airport, is among four units scheduled to be released by Dec. 31. Exact dates were not given.

The Pentagon said the plans would be subject to change if "unforseen circumstances" arose.

Yule Bags Sent To Viet

Some 200 Christmas gift bags have been shipped to servicemen in Vietnam by the East Liverpool area chapter of the Red Cross through the cooperation of various businesses and area residents.

THE BAGS were made of denim material donated by East Liverpool Merchants.

The material was cut and sewn, according to specification, by members of the Senior Citizens Group.

Those making the bags were Mrs. Birtie Aley, Mrs. Rose Calhoun, Mrs. Maude Campbell, Mrs. Gerda Cooper, Mrs. Minnie Gillespie, Mrs. Martha Glass, Mrs. Virginia Heddleston, Mrs. Ruth Heldman, Mrs. Grace Hoff, Mrs. Martha Krentler, Mrs. Margaret Martin, Miss Edna Mase, Mrs. Nannie McCord, Mrs. Lillian McKeever, Mrs. Carmen Melvin, Mrs. Twyla Mercer, Mrs. Stella Millward, Mrs. Hazel Nichols, Mrs. Emma Patterson, Mrs. Marion Rose, Mrs. Alta Sherry and Mrs. Olive Winfield.

Planning for the program began in April. Financing of the project was made possible through the cooperation of banking and savings and loan associations and individual donations.

EACH bag contains a flashlight with batteries, pen and stationery, self-seal envelopes, cigarette lighter with flints, stainless steel mirrors, "living letters" (Voice tapes), soap, small games and puzzles, Christmas decorations, plastic container bags, nail clippers, playing cards, cans of peanuts and harmonicas.

Area businesses and industries made donations, not only of the gift items, but also the packing cartons, the greeting note to each serviceman and the transporting of the boxes to Pittsburgh.

Senior citizens also aided in packing the bags for shipment. Assisting were Mrs. Calhoun, Mrs. Edna Hall, Mrs. Heldman, Miss Mase, Miss Edna Meanor, Mrs. Nichols and William Osborn.

City Prisoner Gets Release

A North Side man sentenced to a 30-day term in Municipal Court Sept. 20 on a charge of malicious destruction of property was granted his release today by Judge Samuel M. Chertoff "so you can resume supporting your wife and six children."

The court granted the release to Delbert Williams of 1915 Smithfield St., who was convicted of destroying a screen door Sept. 15 at the home of Thomas Badgley of Columbia Ave.

In ordering Williams' release, the court granted a motion filed on behalf of the city by Asst. Solicitor Jackman S. Vodrey requiring the defendant to post a $100 peace bond to gurantee that he will obey all laws and will not interfere with any member of the Badgley family. The court also ordered Williams to "refrain from drinking" in the future.

The peace bond will remain in effect until Sept. 30, 1970. The court stipulated that Williams may post the sum at the rate of $10 a month.

"You have been in jail two weeks," the court told Williams. "I received a letter from you saying that you have learned your lesson and that you want to go back to supporting your wife and six children. I am willing to give you another chance."

The court warned Williams that the suspended sentence will be imposed again "and you will serve every day" if the terms of his release are violated. Williams appeared with his counsel, Bernard Fineman.

The 41 countries of Africa had a total of 3.8 million motor vehicles registered as of Jan. 1, 1968. Of this total, 1.7 million cars, trucks and buses were registered in South Africa.

Claims No Single-Handed Victory

Griffin Bucked The Odds To Spark Fortas' Defeat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert P. Griffin, the man who sparked the fight that blocked confirmation of Abe Fortas as chief justice, is a back-row senator who bucked President Johnson, leaders of his own party and the nation's legal establishment.

Not that the 41-year-old Michigan Republican, first elected to the Senate two years ago, claims a single-handed victory in forcing Johnson's withdrawal of the nomination Wednesday, at Fortas' request.

Griffin readily acknowledges that the help of GOP colleagues as well as support from Southern Democrats was essential to bringing about the defeat of a nominee for chief justice for the first time since 1795.

Nonetheless, it was the unimposing, soft-spoken senator who spearheaded the drive who turned up much of the ammunition for the opposition.

An example: Griffin got "a blind call" tipping him to the fact that Fortas was paid $15,000 for lecturing at a summer law school seminar out of $30,000 in donations solicited by a former law partner, Paul A. Porter, from five men with far-flung business and financial interests.

He still doesn't know who made the call.

This was said by many senators to have seriously damaged the appointment's chance.

What first started Griffin off was a newspaper item last June 14 saying that Chief Justice Earl Warren ". . . may quit before President Johnson's term runs out. Reason: He hopes to have a voice in selection of his successor."

Griffin says his reaction, as a lawyer, was that "That's none of Warren's business."

A week later, before Warren's intention to retire was officially known and before Fortas' nomination was submitted, Griffin made a brief Senate speech saying that "I shall not vote to confirm an appointment of the next chief justice by a lame duck President."

In an interview in his office Wednesday, Griffin said that at the time "I didn't think of winning or losing. I just decided that on the basis of the apparent political motives involved, I wasn't going to vote for any nominee."

At a Senate Republican Policy Committee luncheon after his Senate speech, Griffin said, he found quite a few of his GOP colleagues agreed.

Griffin and California Sen. George Murphy then circulated a statement declaring the filling of any Supreme Court vacancies should be left to the next president and pledging to oppose any nominees submitted by Johnson in the closing months of his administration.

The statement, signed by 18 of the 36 Republican senators, was issued on June 26 shortly after Johnson announced Warren's intent to retire and his nomination of Fortas, an old friend and advisor, to succeed him. At the same time federal Judge Homer Thornberry, another old friend of Johnson's was nominated to replace Fortas as an associate justice.

Griffin denounced the appointments as examples of "cronyism at its worst" and renewed his objection to nominations by a "lame duck" president.

But as the controversy went on he said, senators ended up with "a basketful" of other reasons for opposing Fortas' confirmation. No vacancy existed because of the circumstances of Warren's retirement, the court's decisions were wrong in the fields of crime and pornography, the $15,000 lecture fee, and testimony that Fortas had continued to serve as an adviser to Johnson after going on the court as an associate justice in 1965.

Griffin, regarded as a political moderate, left the attacks on the court's decisions to other senators. He said that for the most part he is in agreement with its rulings.

Ultimately Griffin focused his opposition of what he termed questions of propriety and judgment involved in Fortas' extra-judicial activities.

At the start Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, dimissed Griffin's fight against the nomination as "frivolous, diaphanous, gossamer." But in the end Dirksen voted against cutting off the filibuster against confirmation.

The failure of the antifilibuster move, by a 14-vote margin on Tuesday, doomed Fortas' chances and led to the withdrawal of the nomination.

Griffin is no stranger to the giant-killer role. His congressional career started in 1956 with a victory over a three-term representative.

He was a major force in the overthrow of Rep. Charles A. Halleck as GOP leader and he was co-author of the Landrum-Griffin Act, which was passed over the strenuous objections of the labor movement, a power political force in his home state.

He got into the Senate by appointment after the death of Sen. Patrick V. McNamara, but he won the seat on his own in 1966 by upsetting G. Mennen "Soapy" Williams, a six-term Michigan governor who was considered one of the most powerful figures in Michigan's history.

Talk is now developing that Griffin may be projected into the post of chairman of the GOP policy committee which will be left vacant by the retirement of Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa.

Griffin, a 165-pounder who stands 5 foot, 8 and wears thick glasses, plays golf and likes to fish for trout. He cuts his own lawn and cooks breakfast Sunday mornings for his family.

He and his wife, the former Marjorie Anderson of Ludington, Mich., have four children—three boys and a girl. His wife taught school while he was going to the University of Michigan law school after army service in World War II.

Griffin went into the Army as a private and was a forward artillery observer. He spent 14 months overseas and came out of the Army as a corporal.

He was born in Detroit and grew up in a house hand-built by his father.

He and his wife now have their Michigan home in Traverse City, where Griffin practcied law for six years before his election to the House.

Moore Unveils Plan To End Corruption In Government

WHEELING, W. Va. (AP) — Republican gubernatorial candidate Arch A. Moore Jr. today unveiled a plan that he said would end "once and for always corruption in state government" in West Virginia.

Moore told the West Virginia Manufacturers Association that, if elected, he would require all major department heads to file a copy of their annual federal income tax returns with the governor's office.

This, he said, would assure "honesty and integrity in the governmental affairs of West Virginia the likes of which this state has not seen or enjoyed for many decades."

Campaign aides said Moore considered the speech a major policy statement.

Moore also said efforts of the last special session of the legislature to investigate state purchasing practices came too late.

"Somehow I feel that this is like locking the stable door after the horse had been led away," the candidate said.

Renewing his pledge not to increase taxes, Moore also proposed a four-point plan for industrial development:

Possible revision of the business and occupation tax to provide incentives for air and water pollution control and for plant expansion and construction.

Giving highest priority to road construction in areas where present plants exist and new ones are contemplated.

Establishing a nine - man independent board of accounting and purchasing to institute a new system of purchasing and inventory control.

White Drops Write-In Campaign For Senate

MOUNT VERNON, Ohio (AP) —Perennial candidate William L. White Wednesday gave up his write-in campaign for the U.S. Senate.

White withdrew because state law prohibits a defeated primary candidate to run in the general election on a write-in basis. White was defeated in the Republican primary by William B. Saxbe.

Claims No Single-Handed Victory

Griffin Bucked The Odds To Spark Fortas' Defeat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert P. Griffin, the man who sparked the fight that blocked confirmation of Abe Fortas as chief justice, is a back-row senator who bucked President Johnson, leaders of his own party and the nation's legal establishment.

Not that the 41-year-old Michigan Republican, first elected to the Senate two years ago, claims a single-handed victory in forcing Johnson's withdrawal of the nomination Wednesday, at Fortas' request.

Griffin readily acknowledges that the help of GOP colleagues as well as support from Southern Democrats was essential to bringing about the defeat of a nominee for chief justice for the first time since 1795.

Nonetheless, it was the unimposing, soft-spoken senator who spearheaded the drive who turned up much of the ammunition for the opposition.

An example: Griffin got "a blind call" tipping him to the fact that Fortas was paid $15,000 for lecturing at a summer law school seminar out of $30,000 in donations solicited by a former law partner, Paul A. Porter, from five men with far-flung business and financial interests.

He still doesn't know who made the call.

This was said by many senators to have seriously damaged the appointment's chance.

What first started Griffin off was a newspaper item last June 14 saying that Chief Justice Earl Warren "... may quit before President Johnson's term runs out. Reason: He hopes to have a voice in selection of his successor."

Griffin says his reaction, as a lawyer, was that "That's none of Warren's business."

A week later, before Warren's intention to retire was officially known and before Fortas' nomination was submitted, Griffin made a brief Senate speech saying that "I shall not vote to confirm an appointment of the next chief justice by a lame duck President."

In an interview in his office Wednesday, Griffin said that at the time "I didn't think of winning or losing. I just decided that on the basis of the apparent political motives involved, I wasn't going to vote for any nominee."

At a Senate Republican Policy Committee luncheon after his Senate speech, Griffin said, he found quite a few of his GOP colleagues agreed.

Griffin and California Sen. George Murphy then circulated a statement declaring the filling of any Supreme Court vacancies should be left to the next president and pledging to oppose any nominees submitted by Johnson in the closing months of his administration.

The statement, signed by 18 of the 36 Republican senators, was issued on June 26 shortly after Johnson announced Warren's intent to retire and his nomination of Fortas, an old friend and advisor, to succeed him. At the same time federal Judge Homer Thornberry, another old friend of Johnson's was nominated to replace Fortas as an associate justice.

Griffin denounced the appointments as examples of "cronyism at its worst" and renewed his objection to nominations by a "lame duck" president.

But as the controversy went on he said, senators ended up with "a basketful" of other reasons for opposing Fortas' confirmation. No vacancy existed because of the circumstances of Warren's retirement, the court's decisions were wrong in the fields of crime and pornography, the $15,000 lecture fee, and testimony that Fortas had continued to serve as an adviser to Johnson after going on the court as an associate justice in 1965.

Griffin, regarded as a political moderate, left the attacks on the court's decisions to other senators. He said that for the most part he is in agreement with its rulings.

Ultimately Griffin focused his opposition of what he termed questions of propriety and judgment involved in Fortas' extra-judicial activities.

At the start Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, dimissed Griffin's fight against the nomination as "frivolous, diaphanous, gossamer." But in the end Dirksen voted against cutting off the filibuster against confirmation.

The failure of the antifilibuster move, by a 14-vote margin on Tuesday, doomed Fortas' chances and led to the withdrawal of the nomination.

Moore Unveils Plan To End Corruption In Government

WHEELING, W. Va. (AP) — Republican gubernatorial candidate Arch A. Moore Jr. today unveiled a plan that he said would end "once and for always corruption in state government" in West Virginia.

Moore told the West Virginia Manufacturers Association that, if elected, he would require all major department heads to file a copy of their annual federal income tax returns with the governor's office.

This, he said, would assure "honesty and integrity in the governmental affairs of West Virginia the likes of which this state has not seen or enjoyed for many decades."

Campaign aides said Moore considered the speech a major policy statement.

Moore also said efforts of the last special session of the legislature to investigate state purchasing practices came too late.

"Somehow I feel that this is like locking the stable door after the horse had been led away," the candidate said.

Renewing his pledge not to increase taxes, Moore also proposed a four-point plan for industrial development:

Possible revision of the business and occupation tax to provide incentives for air and water pollution control and for plant expansion and construction.

Giving highest priority to road construction in areas where present plants exist and new ones are contemplated.

Establishing a nine - man independent board of accounting and purchasing to institute a new system of purchasing and inventory control.

White Drops Write-In Campaign For Senate

White withdrew because state law prohibits a defeated primary candidate to run in the general election on a write-in basis. White was defeated in the Republican primary by William B. Saxbe.

Tuberculin Tests Set For Schools In City

ALL SMILES while trying out a tuberculin test "gun" in preparation for the East Liverpool schools TB screening program this month are Michael Enochs, 10, a fifth-grader at Westgate School; Richard Emmerling, East Liverpool and St. Clair Township chairman for the annual Christmas Seal Campaign, and Lisa Robinson, 7, a second-grader at Westgate. Michael is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Enochs of Shadyside Ave. and Lisa a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Robinson of 343 Ogden St.

Tuberculin tests will be given this month in city schools under auspices of the board of education and the city Health Department.

The Columbiana County Tuberculosis Clinic will provide technical assistance.

Heaf tests will be given to students in Grades 10 and 12 at 9 a.m. Oct. 10.

The tests will be read Oct. 14 and a Mantoux test will be given at that time to positive reactors. The Mantoux tests will be read Oct. 16.

Edna Jones, school nurse, said Grades 1, 3 and 5 at North Elementary School will be screened on the same dates as the high school classes.

She noted that the board of education and the Ohio Department of Health require teachers, substitutes, cafeteria workers, bus drivers, custodians and all school employes to have TB tests or present proof of a chest X-ray every year.

The rest of the testing schedule follows:

Oct. 15—9 a.m., Heaf tests for Westgate School Grades 1, 3, 5 and 7; "Head Start" pupils, new pupils and school personnel.

Oct. 18—Tests will be read and positive reactors will receive Mantoux tests. Oct. 21—Mantoux tests will be read.

Grades 1, 3 5 and 7 at St. Aloysius School will receive tests on the same schedule as the Westgate classes.

Oct. 21—9 a.m., Heaf tests for East Elementary school Grades 1, 3 and 5; new pupils and school personnel; East Junior High Grade 7, new pupil and school personnel; LaCroft elementary School Grades 1, 3 and 5, new pupils and school personnel.

Oct. 25—Heaf tests to be read and Mantoux tests to be given to positive reactors. Oct. 28—Mantoux tests will be read.

Parent permission cards will be needed for test and reading days. Mrs. Marie Hayes will furnish volunteers to assist the school nurses.

Free chest X-rays will be offered adults at a mobile unit on the Diamond Oct. 31 and Nov. 1. The hours will be 10 a.m. to noon and 2 to 4 and 6 to 8 p.m.

Plans Motorcade Of 29 Towns

HHH Returns To W.Va. Where He Lost In 1960

By HARRY KELLY
Associated Press Writer

WELCH, W.Va. (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey returns today to the villages and craggy hills of West Virginia where he fought the late John F. Kennedy in the presidential primary eight years ago—and lost.

"In 1960 a cold-hearted Nixon Republican administration sat in Washington and cared nothing for West Virginia and did nothing for the people of Appalachia. . .

"Yes, John Kennedy and I came to West Virginia in 1960. We made promises and in the last eight Democratic years we kept these promises."

When Humphrey was making those promises eight years ago he was campaigning along the narrow roads in a cold, beat up bus.

Today the vice president flew from Charlotte, N.C., to Bluefield, W.Va., with a fleet of five prop planes for the 122-mile motorcade through such towns as Pineville, Slab Fork, Crab Orchard, Glen Jean, North Fork, Wolf Pen and Cow Shed.

Also scheduled to be riding along in another sentimental gesture is Jimmy Wolford, the country singer and guitar player who was the Humphrey traveling minstrel eight years ago.

Humphrey comes into West Virginia after an excursion into Dixie. Crowds in Knoxville, Tenn., Jacksonville, Fla., and Charlotte, N.C., obviously bouyed Humphry and his staff.

"We've turned the corner Humphrey said of his campaign.

A crowd estimated at 13,000 turned out in Charlotte Wednesday to hear an obviously pleased Humphrey contend that he had a better record for keeping law and order as mayor of Minneapolis a score of years ago than George C. Wallace, his third-party opponent, had as governor of Alabama.

Humphrey also told the audience that Richard M. Nixon is afraid to debate him but that he would keep after his Republican opponent.

Humphrey said in a speech prepared for West Virginia audiences that he was pledging a "new day for the people of West Virginia—a new day for all Americans."

This new day, Humphrey continued, would include: a 50 per cent increase in Social Security benefits; an education for every child from age four through college, regardless of ability to pay; tax reform "to take the unfair pressure off" middle-and low-income families; a "decent job" for every man and woman able and willing to work; a United Nations peace force one day to replace American troops in Vietnam; and federal aid to help local police forces.

Chester Kiwanis Elects Pillo To Post Of President

Airplane Hits Movie Building; Pilot, 63, Killed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A single-engine plane slammed into a 20th Century-Fox studios building Wednesday, near the sets for the movie "Hello, Dolly," and the television series "Peyton Place," where scores of production workers were on the job.

The plane's pilot, Walter Kaufman, 63, of Pacific Palisades, was killed. No other serious injuries were reported.

Witnesses said Kaufman was alone in the four-seat aircraft, apparently trying to land at Santa Monica Municipal Airport four miles to the west.

After missing the runway, the plane swung back over west Los Angeles and hit near the third floor of the film company administration building, then fell in flames.

Hundreds of persons were inside the building.

The explosion knocked producer Sy Barlett off the sidewalk. As he rolled under a car to dodge falling debris, the plane's landing gear fell on top of the car.

About 40 children and parents were in the studio's casting office on the ground floor, trying out for roles in the television series, "Nanny."

Garner's Son Dies

UVALDE, Tex. (AP) — Tully C. Garner, 72, only child of the late John Nance Garner, two-term vice president under Franklin D. Roosevelt, died Wednesday, apparently of a heart attack.

Officers Named For Student Unit At Daw Junior

Home room representatives and alternates are: Eighth grade — Bruce Sines, Mark Moxley, Crystal Gooch and Danny Crook, representatives; David Angellone, Sonny Grimm, Lorraine Shoub and Janis Salajczyk, alternates.

The first of the Student Council activities this year will be the annual magazine sale during October.

French Painter Dies

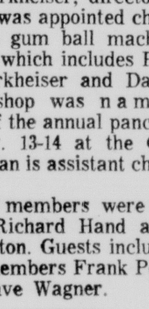

PARIS (AP) — Marcel Duchamp, 81, who painted the controversial "Nude Descending a Staircase," died Tuesday night. Duchamp's portrayal of superimposed mechanical figures in the painting created a scandal when it first was shown in 1913. He was sometimes called the father of pop art.

Water skiing began in France in the 1920s. The American Water Ski Association was founded in 1939, with the first world championships initiated in 1949.

ANN LANDERS

New Cure For Dandruff

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Ask around and let me know if I'm the only woman in the world who's married to such a kook. My husband (age 31) thinks sex is the cure for everything — insomnia, depression, worry, heartburn, headache — just name it. Last night was the last straw. He decided sex was also a cure for dandruff.

This is his reasoning: Most dandruff is caused by nervousness. Sex is the greatest relaxer known to man. If he were more relaxed he wouldn't have so much dandruff. As a dutiful wife, it's my responsibility to help rid him of his tensions. A reduction in tension means a reduction in dandruff.

Is he nuts or am I? — MRS. CURE-ALL.

Dear Mrs.: Whenever a woman asks me if her husband is nuts or if she is, I always remind her that she selected him.

As for your husband using sex as an excuse to rid himself of dandruff, why must it be an excuse for something? Sex can and SHOULD be a supportive, pleasurable part of marriage for while it also may be therapeutic, a husband should not have to ask for it as a cure for something.

Right Move

Dear Ann: In the past few years you have urged kids who have alcoholic parents to join Alateen. My brother and I are two of those kids and want to tell you what it did for us.

Kids whose parents don't drink can skip this letter. A person who has not lived with screaming, beatings, broken glass, black eyes, knocked out teeth, police at the door, bill collectors, the whole ugly bit — can't believe there's such a living hell.

My brother and I read about Alateen in your column two years ago. We were in need of help but ashamed to go to a meeting. Finally we decided it was either Alateen or the bughouse — so we went.

The welcome we got was great. Every kid there made us feel right at home. Without saying a word, we knew they understood what we were going through because they were going through the same thing.

My brother and I gained strength and courage. We also gained an understanding of alcoholism that took away a lot of the hatred and bitterness.

Please continue to encourage teen-agers to join this wonderful organization. It changed our lives. — A SISTER AND HER BROTHER.

Dear S. And B.: You said it better than I could and I thank you. Teens who need Alateen should look in the phone book or write to Al-Anon Family Group Headquarters, Inc., P.O. Box 182, Madison Square Station, New York, N.Y. 10010.

Speed Trap

Dear Ann: Please tell us right away if there's a state where a girl of 14 (very mature) can marry a man of 16 without their parents' consent. We need this information fast, so hurry it up. — IN LOVE AND CAN'T WAIT.

Dear In Love: My advice is to forget it but the answer to your question is that state laws vary. The information you want is in your public library. Or you can call City Hall. The state that comes to my mind at once is the state of confusion.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

GEORGETOWN — A Bible study on "The Life of Christ" was conducted by the Rev. Howard Burrell during the meeting of Friendship Class of the Georgetown United Methodist Church. Mrs. John Nash, teacher, was in charge.

The study will be continued every two weeks at the church by Rev. Burrell, with the next Oct. 11 at 8 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. Nash were in charge of the social hour.

The 14th birthday of Carolyn Brandon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brandon, was observed Saturday with a party attended by 17.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schreckengost and sons of Indiana, Pa., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Campbell Jr.

Six More Ohioans Killed In Viet Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six Ohioans have been killed in recent Vietnam action, the Defense Department reported Wednesday. They were Marine Cpl. Samuel M. Cavins of Cleveland and, all Army, 1st Lt. David K. Chahoc, Lakewood; Spec. 4 Joseph G. Ambrosio, Elyria; Pfc. Robert J. Barry, Lorain, and Pfc. Virgil J. Webb, Delaware.

Army Sgt. Danny C. Hayes of Scottown, Lawrence County, was switched from missing to killed in action.

200 Participate In Reading Club Party Of Library

Prizes were won by Ricky Manning, third grade; Cathy Crouch, second grade, and Robin Maltarich, sixth, all from the North Elementary School, and Mary Osborne, fifth grade, and Joseph Carr, fourth grade, at St. Alosyius School. Favors and treats were given to all the children.

Miss Mary Ann Jordan was in charge of arrangements, assisted by Mrs. Charles Jones, Miss Nancy Stanley and Miss Jane DeLong.

Computer Slated For Potters Bank In Fall Of 1969

Employes and officers will be trained as programmers and operators of the computer, which will be the second sizable computer to be located here. The other is at City Hospital.

Starkey said the data processing equipment will permit the bank to process all phases of its operations locally.

John Starkey, assistant vice president who will be in charge of the processing center, said the 615 is fully integrated with an 800th billionth of a second access time to the thin film internal memory, as well as two removable disc storage units, each with a capacity of 8.4 million information characters.

It has a high speed printer, punch tape reader and a "sorter - reader" which will determine the proper account, whether it is debit or credit and update it at a rate of 600 documents a minute.

The computer will also provide expanded customer services such as payroll accounting, inventory control and scheduling and other operations, it was explained.

Ex-Boxing Champion Slates Ohio Address

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Former light heavyweight boxing champion Archie Moore will address the fourth annual Recreation Conference Banquet here Oct. 15.

The conference is sponsored by the Ohio Youth Commission's Division of Correctional Services. Moore is a community relations specialist for the Boy Scouts of America.

Wallace To Get Key, But Second Hand, To Toledo

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—George C. Wallace will get a key to the city after all, a group of Toledo citizens announced today. But it will be second hand.

The former Alabama governor was scheduled to arrive here at 4:30 p.m. today. Mayor William Ensign announced earlier this week that he would not present the third party presidential candidate a glass key to "The Glass City."

National candidates of the major political parties have received the keys on recent visits, and Wallace backers issued a statement criticizing the Democratic mayor's "arbitrary denial of fair play and equal treatment."

The citizens group of Wallace supporters said the second hand key to be presented at the airport to Wallace came from an anonymous donor.

ANN LANDERS

New Cure For Dandruff

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Ask around and let me know if I'm the only woman in the world who's married to such a kook. My husband (age 31) thinks sex is the cure for everything — insomnia, depression, worry, heartburn, headache — just name it. Last night was the last straw. He decided sex was also a cure for dandruff.

This is his reasoning: Most dandruff is caused by nervousness. Sex is the greatest relaxer known to man. If he were more relaxed he wouldn't have so much dandruff. As a dutiful wife, it's my responsibility to help rid him of his tensions. A reduction in tension means a reduction in dandruff.

Is he nuts or am I? — MRS. CURE-ALL.

Dear Mrs.: Whenever a woman asks me if her husband is nuts or if she is, I always remind her that she selected him.

As for your husband using sex as an excuse to rid himself of dandruff, why must it be an excuse for something? Sex can and SHOULD be a supportive, pleasurable part of marriage for while it also may be therapeutic, a husband should not have to ask for it as a cure for something.

Right Move

Dear Ann: In the past few years you have urged kids who have alcoholic parents to join Alateen. My brother and I are two of those kids and want to tell you what it did for us.

Kids whose parents don't drink can skip this letter. A person who has not lived with screaming, beatings, broken glass, black eyes, knocked out teeth, police at the door, bill collectors, the whole ugly bit — can't believe there's such a living hell.

My brother and I read about Alateen in your column two years ago. We were in need of help but ashamed to go to a meeting. Finally we decided it was either Alateen or the bughouse — so we went.

The welcome we got was great. Every kid there made us feel right at home. Without saying a word, we knew they understood what we were going through because they were going through the same thing.

My brother and I gained strength and courage. We also gained an understanding of alcoholism that took away a lot of the hatred and bitterness.

Please continue to encourage teen-agers to join this wonderful organization. It changed our lives. — A SISTER AND HER BROTHER.

Dear S. And B.: You said it better than I could and I thank you. Teens who need Alateen should look in the phone book or write to Al-Anon Family Group Headquarters, Inc., P.O. Box 182, Madison Square Station, New York, N.Y. 10010.

Speed Trap

Dear Ann: Please tell us right away if there's a state where a girl of 14 (very mature) can marry a man of 16 without their parents' consent. We need this information fast, so hurry it up. — IN LOVE AND CAN'T WAIT.

Dear In Love: My advice is to forget it but the answer to your question is that state laws vary. The information you want is in your public library. Or you can call City Hall. The state that comes to my mind at once is the state of confusion.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

200 Participate In Reading Club Party Of Library

Tyra Gilkinson, a second-grade pupil at Calcutta School and a student at the Myers School of Dancing, presented a pantomime and tap dance and Marsha Joy, a pre-school child, a baton twirling routine. Both girls have received various awards for their performances.

Prizes were won by Ricky Manning, third grade; Cathy Crouch, second grade, and Robin Maltarich, sixth, all from the North Elementary School, and Mary Osborne, fifth grade, and Joseph Carr, fourth grade, at St. Afosyius School. Favors and treats were given to all the children.

Miss Mary Ann Jordan was in charge of arrangements, assisted by Mrs. Charles Jones, Miss Nancy Stanley and Miss Jane DeLong.

Computer Slated For Potters Bank In Fall Of 1969

Delivery of a National Cash Register 615 third generation computer is scheduled for the fall of 1969 at the Potters Bank & Trust Co., Gordon Starkey, president of the bank, announce today.

Employes and officers will be trained as programmers and operators of the computer, which will be the second sizable computer to be located here. The other is at City Hospital.

Starkey said the data processing equipment will permit the bank to process all phases of its operations locally.

The 615 computer will provide a "Central Information File" of detailed, complete and easily accessible records of each customer.

John Starkey, assistant vice president who will be in charge of the processing center, said the 615 is fully integrated with an 800th billionth of a second access time to the thin film internal memory, as well as two removable disc storage units, each with a capacity of 8.4 million information characters.

It has a high speed printer, punch tape reader and a "sorter - reader" which will determine the proper account, whether it is debit or credit and update it at a rate of 600 documents a minute.

The computer will also provide expanded customer services such as payroll accounting, inventory control and scheduling and other operations, it was explained.

Wallace To Get Key, But Second Hand, To Toledo

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—George C. Wallace will get a key to the city after all, a group of Toledo citizens announced today. But it will be second hand.

The former Alabama governor was scheduled to arrive here at 4:30 p.m. today. Mayor William Ensign announced earlier this week that he would not present the third party presidential candidate a glass key to "The Glass City."

National candidates of the major political parties have received the keys on recent visits, and Wallace backers issued a statement criticizing the Democratic mayor's "arbitrary denial of fair play and equal treatment."

The citizens group of Wallace supporters said the second hand key to be presented at the airport to Wallace came from an anonymous donor.

By TURK PIERCE
Review Sports Editor

The East Liverpool Potters, coming off their first loss of the season, will have their hands full Friday night with visiting Archbishop Carroll of Washington, D.C.

The Lions, coached by Maurice Collins, opened with a 7-7 tie against Washington and Lee High of Arlington, Va., one of the bigger schools in Virginia. Carroll then rolled over Mount St. Joseph of Baltimore 47-0 before edging Bishop Dennis O'Connell of D.C. 12-6 last week, so East Liverpool will make the fourth straight opponent from a different state for the Lions.

Carroll, a parochial school of 1,174 boys, went 8-1-1 last season, and is usually a power in the Washington area. One local resident who saw one of their game films said the Lions "looked like Notre Dame".

★ ★ ★ Potter Foe One Of Top D.C. Teams ★ ★ ★

The Potters will be hampered for the contest not only by the absence of captain Jim Musuraca, who is still out with a separated shoulder, but by the probable absence of end Jerry Christian, who suffered a severe ankle sprain in the loss to Central.

Tackle Don Cochran and end John Johnson, who had lesser ankle injuries in the Central game, are expected to be ready. Nelson Clark, the squad's leading rusher, has had a touch of the flu, but is also expected to be ready. Guard Lou Volino seems fully recovered from a concussion suffered in the Youngstown Woodrow Wilson game.

Jack Melvin has done a fine job filling in for Musuraca at defensive end, but if Christian misses the game the other defensive end spot will be undermanned. Tom Gooding caught a TD pass replacing Christian on offense. Cochran, Volino, Jim (Moose) Jones, Stanley Ice and Denny Brennen are set in the middle of the line.

Danny Cunningham will be the quarterback, with Clark, Tom Chambers and Herb Purton the other probable backfield starters, and speedy Steve Williams in reserve.

Potter coach Bob McNea, who has attended the last two games on six-hour passes from Youngstown Northside Hospital, was released from the hospital Tuesday, but didn't return to school immediately.

Koufax' Record Eclipsed In 9th

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Just as he did last year, St. Louis' Bob Gibson turned a potentially great pitching duel into a one-sided affair and confronted the opposition with the problem of finding another road to a World Series victory.

Gibson, who completely dominated his seventh-game match with Boston's Jim Lonborg last year, struck out a Series record 18 and allowed just five hits as the Cardinals won Wednesday's opener with a 4-0 decision over Denny McLain and the Dertoit Tigers.

A towel slung over his left shoulder and sipping some soda pop, Gibson talked quietly, and without any bravado, in the St. Louis dressing room about one of the most dramatic moments in World Series history—and the night before.

"I didn't do anything special Tuesday night," Gibson said. "Went to the airport about 8:30 to meet my little girl, Renee, coming in from Omaha. Then we all—my wife, daughter, a friend of hers and one of the neighbor's boys—went to an Italian restaurant for some spaghetti."

"My wife tries to stay away from any baseball talk," Gibson explained. "We just talked about what the kids did wrong that day."

If the kids did any thing wrong at home Tuesday, Gibson certainly didn't do anything wrong on the mound Wednesday. He set the Tigers down on five hits, tied a Series record with his sixth consecutive victory and broke the strikeout record of 15 set by Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1963.

"In the early-innings I didn't think I was pitching strong," the 32-year-old Gibson said in the dressing room, his sweat-soaked cap still jammed on his head. "I asked Tim (catcher Tim McCarver) about it, and he agreed I wasn't as strong."

And so, Gibson proceeded to mow down the Tigers, getting Al Kaline looking in the fourth and Don Wert on a called strike in the fifth.

Then, his aching arm, tired by 305 innings of work during a regular season that brought him 22 victories—13 by shutout—began to bother him.

"I got tired about the sixth and my arm ached," Gibson explained. "I guess every pitcher complains about his arm. It aches all the time—sometimes in three spots, all around the elbow. It never really goes away.

Gibson Unaware Of Record 16th

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Bob Gibson spent the evening before his first start in the World Series at a small Italian restaurant with his family. Denny McLain spent it playing the organ at a local night spot.

The 32-year-old right-hander so overwhelmed the Tigers—he permitted two men on base in only one inning—that they may be faced with the problem of how to lose to Gibson and still win the Series.

Mickey Lolich was the Detroit starter for today's second game, and Earl Wilson is Manager Mayo Smith's choice for Game No. 3 in Detroit Saturday.

Thus, now that the Tigers have seen what they can't do against Gibson, Lolich and Wilson have the task of trying to do to Nelson Briles and Ray Washburn what Gibson did to McLain.

"Yes, I was very surprised," the 24-year-old right-hander said, commenting on his early exit. "You don't pitch 340 innings and then get yanked out."

Asked if he might talk to his manager about it, McLain replied, "I just may do that."

The Tigers, however, not only have to talk about what to do to get past Gibson, but they also have to do more than they did Wednesday.

The Cardinal ace struck out seven of the first nine batters he faced, then eclipsed Sandy Koufax' Series record of 15 strikeouts by fanning the side in the ninth.

The victory also was his sixth straight complete game triumph in Series play, and that meant two more marks—a share of the record for six straight victories and sole ownership of the mark for consecutive complete game victories.

Gibson, however, wasn't the only asset the Cardinals displayed in the first game. They stole three bases in four attempts, and Lou Brock had only one of them. Julian Javier and Curt Flood got the others, which is another thing Detroit must worry about.

At the same time, though, Smith was rewarded for his bold experiment of playing center fielder Mickey Stanley at short in order to get Al Kaline into the line-up. Stanley played flawlessly in the field while rapping two hits, and Kaline doubled in the sixth, the only inning the Tigers had two men on base.

"His pitching was on a par with anything I've ever seen," said Kaline, a 16-year veteran. "He had an excellent breaking ball. I know he's a great pitcher, probably one of the greatest."

"I didn't feel strong, but I did have real good control," said Gibson, who posted 13 shutouts among his 22 victories during the season. "You know, getting more strikeouts doesn't necessarily mean you pitched a better game."

Following the passes to Roger Maris and Tim McCarver, Mike Shannon singled to left for one run and Javier later knocked in two more runs with a single. Brock hit a 3-2 pitch off reliever Pat Dobson for a homer in the seventh.

"I just had real bad control," McLain said. "There's nothing else I can say. It probably was the worst rhythm I've had in a long time."

McLain Still Confident After Series Loss

By LARRY PALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Denny McLain was on the losing end of the celebrated World Series pitching duel Wednesday against Bob Gibson of St. Louis. But Detroit's 4-0 defeat didn't seem to shake McLain's nerves.

Newsmen flocked around him in the Tigers' dressing room as the right-hander casually sat down with his feet propped on a table and answered questions in his usual almost cocky fashion, smiling as if he had just won the Series opener rather than lost it.

Although he acknowledged his lack of control resulted in the loss, he expressed surprise and even indignation at being pulled from the game after five innings. Pat Dobson relieved him in the sixth.

"Yes, I was very surprised," McLain said. "You don't pitch 340 innings (this season) and then get yanked out."

"Do you plan on seeing Mayo (Manager Mayo Smith) about it," he was asked.

"I just may do that," he said. "I think he did what he thought he had to do," said pitching coach Johnny Sain.

McLain allowed only three hits and three walks, but he was behind on many batters and two of the walks came in the fourth inning in front of a pair of singles as the Cardinals went ahead 3-0.

"Control was his problem," Smith said. "I don't think it had a bit to do with nerves."

McLain will face Gibson again Sunday in Detroit.

"It's always an advantage to play in your home park, but actually I prefer to pitch away because most other parks are larger," Denny said.

The Cards stole three bases against the Tigers Wednesday. Mayo said the blame shouldn't all fall on catcher Bill Freehan.

"It wasn't just Freehan," Smith said. "The pitcher has to control the base runners."

"The stolen bases didn't account for one run," said Freehan. "I'm not making excuses for my throws you understand, but that's just the way it is."

Gibson set a World Series record in the game by striking out 17 batters. The old record of 14 was set by the Los Angeles Dodgers' Sandy Koufax against the New York Yankees in 1963.

"That was the whole show," Smith said.

McLain wouldn't take anything away from Gibson's victory. "That was the greatest performance I've ever seen," he said.

Mickey Stanley, the regular Tiger centerfielder who is playing shortstop for the Series, got two hits off Gibson. "Both were breaking balls," he said. "He's definitely the best pitcher I ever faced."

Potters 5th In Ferry Invitational

The East Liverpool High Cross-Country team placed fifth among 10 teams in the Martins Ferry invitational yesterday.

Wheeling High won with a mere 22 points, their leading runner covering the two - mile course in 9:55. Two more West Virginia schools were second and third and Dover placed fourth.

The Potters host Salem today.

Bob Starford Qualifies For WVU Club

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP) — Junior defensive end Bob Starford of Grafton is the first West Virginia University football player this year to qualify for the Mountaineer Club.

Starford was awarded seven points for his performance in last Saturday's Pitt game, giving him a total of 22 for the season. Twenty points are required for admission to the Mountaineer Club.

Meanwhile, the WVU gridders wound up heavy drills Wednesday in preparation for Saturday's match with third-ranked Penn State.

Coach "Deacon" Jim Carlen, citing what he called "one of the greatest defenses in the nation," said the Mountaineers "can't make mistakes. . . We have to move the ball consistently."

Penn State coach Joe Paterno recalled saying last spring "that West Virginia had an excellent chance to be ranked in the top 10 by the end of the 1968 season. . .

Lee Trevino I Shot Back In Alcan Golf

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — One shot off the pace, U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino said today he could handle British rain and weather and he expects to win the $55,000 first prize as the Alcan golfer of the year.

The 28-year-old Trevino from Horizon City, Tex., went into the second round of the 72-hole medal play Alcan Tournament, trailing only Bobby Cole of South Africa and Tommy Horton of England, who shot 71s.

Trevino's two-under-par round Wednesday in driving rain was better than it looked.

"I missed one putt from about two feet or so," said Trevino, a 6-1 shot to win the big prize out of the 24-man field.

Bob Murphy of Nichols, Fla., also fired a 72. Gay Brewer of Dallas, Tex., had a 75 while leading U.S. money winner Billy Casper of Peacock Gap, Calif., shot a 77.

Other American scores were: Gardner Dickinson, North Palm Beach, Fla., 77; Bert Yancey, Tallahassee, Fla., 77; Tom Weiskopf, Bedford, Ohio, 78; George Archer, Gilroy, Calif., 79; Miller Barber, Sherman, Tex., 80; and Frank Beard, Louisville, Ky., 86.

Another Midland product, Rich Mahurt, got a brief exposure on national TV Saturday. Starting in Purdue's defensive backfield against Notre Dame, Mahurt made a tackle on the second play of the game and on the next play was hurt, suffering a head and rib injuries. He did not return to the game, but may be ready by this weekend.

LARRY SPIRES of Stanton continues to shine at defensive end for Ohio U. Spires had 17 tackles, assisted or unassisted, in the 31-7 win over Kent State and was nominated for MAC lineman of the week.

THE SAN DIEGO Rockets are counting on Elvin Hayes to make them respectable in the NBA. The Chicago Bulls are expecting great things from 7 foot Dave Newmark, who passed up his final year of eligibility with Columbia to sign with the NBA team.

JAN STENRUD, the outstanding placekicker of the Kansas City Chiefs, attended Montana State on a skiing scholarship. Stenrud is a native of Norway. He won the Big Sky Conference skiing title every year he was at Montana, but has given up skiing since becoming a pro gridder.

NEW GREEN BAY Packer coach Phil Bengtson, has his name misspelled Bengston about half the time. "The name means son of Bengt.," says Phil, providing an easy way to remember it.

NORM MILLER of the Astros is going to be married Oct. 6, but it won't be the simplest wedding ever. Miller broke an ankle Sept. 22 when crashing into a wall, and will be in a cast for the festivities. And the mother of the bride will be on crutches, having previosuly broken a toe.

Archbishop Carroll, 2-0-1, At Patterson Field Friday

Potter Foe One Of Top D.C. Teams

By TURK PIERCE
Review Sports Editor

The East Liverpool Potters, coming off their first loss of the season, will have their hands full Friday night with visiting Archbishop Carroll of Washington, D.C.

The invaders are 2-0-1 on the year and are considered one of the top teams in the Washington area.

The Lions, coached by Maurice Collins, opened with a 7-7 tie against Washington and Lee High of Arlington, Va., one of the bigger schools in Virginia. Carroll then rolled over Mount St. Joseph of Baltimore 47-0 before edging Bishop Dennis O'Connell of D.C. 12-6 last week, so East Liverpool will make the fourth straight opponent from a different state for the Lions.

Carroll, a parochial school of 1,174 boys, went 8-1-1 last season, and is usually a power in the Washington area. One local resident who saw one of their game films said the Lions "looked like Notre Dame".

The Potters will be hampered for the contest not only by the absence of captain Jim Musuraca, who is still out with a separated shoulder, but by the probable absence of end Jerry Christian, who suffered a severe ankle sprain in the loss to Central.

Tackle Don Cochran and end John Johnson, who had lesser ankle injuries in the Central game, are expected to be ready. Nelson Clark, the squad's leading rusher, has had a touch of the flu, but is also expected to be ready. Guard Lou Volino seems fully recovered from a concussion suffered in the Youngstown Woodrow Wilson game.

Jack Melvin has done a fine job filling in for Musuraca at defensive end, but if Christian misses the game the other defensive end spot will be undermanned. Tom Gooding caught a TD pass replacing Christian on offense. Cochran, Volino, Jim (Moose) Jones, Stanley Ice and Denny Brennen are set in the middle of the line.

Danny Cunningham will be the quarterback, with Clark, Tom Chambers and Herb Purton the other probable backfield starters, and speedy Steve Williams in reserve.

Potter coach Bob McNea, who has attended the last two games on six-hour passes from Youngstown Northside Hospital, was released from the hospital Tuesday, but didn't return to school immediately.

Koufax' Record Eclipsed In 9th

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Just as he did last year, St. Louis' Bob Gibson turned a potentially great pitching duel into a one-sided affair and confronted the opposition with the problem of finding another road to a World Series victory.

Gibson, who completely dominated his seventh-game match with Boston's Jim Lonborg last year, struck out a Series record 18 and allowed just five hits as the Cardinals won Wednesday's opener with a 4-0 decision over Denny McLain and the Dertoit Tigers.

A towel slung over his left shoulder and sipping some soda pop, Gibson talked quietly, and without any bravado, in the St. Louis dressing room about one of the most dramatic moments in World Series history—and the night before.

"I didn't do anything special Tuesday night," Gibson said. "Went to the airport about 8:30 to meet my little girl, Renee, coming in from Omaha. Then we all—my wife, daughter, a friend of hers and one of the neighbor's boys—went to an Italian restaurant for some spaghetti."

"My wife tries to stay away from any baseball talk," Gibson explained. "We just talked about what the kids did wrong that day."

If the kids did any thing wrong at home Tuesday, Gibson certainly didn't do anything wrong on the mound Wednesday. He set the Tigers down on five hits, tied a Series record with his sixth consecutive victory and broke the strikeout record of 15 set by Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1963.

"In the early-innings I didn't think I was pitching strong," the 32-year-old Gibson said in the dressing room, his sweat-soaked cap still jammed on his head. "I asked Tim (catcher Tim McCarver) about it, and he agreed I wasn't as strong."

But over the first three innings, Gibson struck out seven Tigers.

"I didn't feel strong, but I did have real good control," said Gibson.

And so, Gibson proceeded to mow down the Tigers, getting Al Kaline looking in the fourth and Don Wert on a called strike in the fifth.

Then, his aching arm, tired by 305 innings of work during a regular season that brought him 22 victories—13 by shutout—began to bother him.

"I got tired about the sixth and my arm ached," Gibson explained. "I guess every pitcher complains about his arm. It aches all the time—sometimes in three spots, all around the elbow. It never really goes away.

Gibson Unaware Of Record 16th

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Bob Gibson spent the evening before his first start in the World Series at a small Italian restaurant with his family. Denny McLain spent it playing the organ at a local night spot.

The 32-year-old right-hander so overwhelmed the Tigers—he permitted two men on base in only one inning—that they may be faced with the problem of how to lose to Gibson and still win the Series.

Mickey Lolich was the Detroit starter for today's second game, and Earl Wilson is Manager Mayo Smith's choice for Game No. 3 in Detroit Saturday.

Thus, now that the Tigers have seen what they can't do against Gibson, Lolich and Wilson have the task of trying to do to Nelson Briles and Ray Washburn what Gibson did to McLain.

"Yes, I was very surprised," the 24-year-old right-hander said, commenting on his early exit. "You don't pitch 340 innings and then get yanked out."

Asked if he might talk to his manager about it, McLain replied, "I just may do that."

The Tigers, however, not only have to talk about what to do to get past Gibson, but they also have to do more than they did Wednesday.

The Cardinal ace struck out seven of the first nine batters he faced, then eclipsed Sandy Koufax' Series record of 15 strikeouts by fanning the side in the ninth.

The victory also was his sixth straight complete game triumph in Series play, and that meant two more marks—a share of the record for six straight victories and sole ownership of the mark for consecutive complete game victories.

Gibson, in fact, hasn't lost or been knocked out of a game since his first Series appearance in 1964 against the New York Yankees.

Gibson, however, wasn't the only asset the Cardinals displayed in the first game. They stole three bases in four attempts, and Lou Brock had only one of them. Julian Javier and Curt Flood got the others, which is another thing Detroit must worry about.

At the same time, though, Smith was rewarded for his bold experiment of playing center fielder Mickey Stanley at short in order to get Al Kaline into the line-up. Stanley played flawlessly in the field while rapping two hits, and Kaline doubled in the sixth, the only inning the Tigers had two men on base.

"His pitching was on a par with anything I've ever seen," said Kaline, a 16-year veteran. "He had an excellent breaking ball. I know he's a great pitcher, probably one of the greatest."

"I didn't feel strong, but I did have real good control," said Gibson, who posted 13 shutouts among his 22 victories during the season. "You know, getting more strikeouts doesn't necessarily mean you pitched a better game."

No matter how Gibson graded his effort, it was far superior to McLain's. The 24-year-old right-hander issued two walks that contributed to St. Louis' three-run outburst in the fourth inning.

Following the passes to Roger Maris and Tim McCarver, Mike Shannon singled to left for one run and Javier later knocked in two more runs with a single. Brock hit a 3-2 pitch off reliever Pat Dobson for a homer in the seventh.

"I just had real bad control," McLain said. "There's nothing else I can say. It probably was the worst rhythm I've had in a long time."

McLain Still Confident After Series Loss

By LARRY PALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Denny McLain was on the losing end of the celebrated World Series pitching duel Wednesday against Bob Gibson of St. Louis. But Detroit's 4-0 defeat didn't seem to shake McLain's nerves.

Newsmen flocked around him in the Tigers' dressing room as the right-hander casually sat down with his feet propped on a table and answered questions in his usual almost cocky fashion, smiling as if he had just won the Series opener rather than lost it.

Although he acknowledged his lack of control resulted in the loss, he expressed surprise and even indignation at being pulled from the game after five innings. Pat Dobson relieved him in the sixth.

"Yes, I was very surprised," McLain said. "You don't pitch 340 innings (this season) and then get yanked out."

"Do you plan on seeing Mayo (Manager Mayo Smith) about it," he was asked.

"I just may do that," he said.

"I think he did what he thought he had to do," said pitching coach Johnny Sain.

McLain allowed only three hits and three walks but he was behind on many batters and two of the walks came in the fourth inning in front of a pair of singles as the Cardinals went ahead 3-0.

"Control was his problem," Smith said. "I don't think it had a bit to do with nerves."

McLain will face Gibson again Sunday in Detroit.

"It's always an advantage to play in your home park, but actually I prefer to pitch away because most other parks are larger," Denny said.

The Cards stole three bases against the Tigers Wednesday. Mayo said the blame shouldn't all fall on catcher Bill Freehan.

"It wasn't just Freehan," Smith said. "The pitcher has to control the base runners."

"The stolen bases didn't account for one run," said Freehan. "I'm not making excuses for my throws you understand, but that's just the way it is."

Gibson set a World Series record in the game by striking out 17 batters. The old record of 14 was set by the Los Angeles Dodgers' Sandy Koufax against the New York Yankees in 1963.

"That was the whole show," Smith said.

McLain wouldn't take anything away from Gibson's victory. "That was the greatest performance I've ever seen," he said.

Mickey Stanley, the regular Tiger centerfielder who is playing shortstop for the Series, got two hits off Gibson. "Both were breaking balls," he said. "He's definitely the best pitcher I ever faced."

Bob Starford Qualifies For WVU Club

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP) — Junior defensive end Bob Starford of Grafton is the first West Virginia University football player this year to qualify for the Mountaineer Club.

Starford was awarded seven points for his performance in last Saturday's Pitt game, giving him a total of 22 for the season. Twenty points are required for admission to the Mountaineer Club.

Meanwhile, the WVU gridders wound up heavy drills Wednesday in preparation for Saturday's match with third-ranked Penn State.

Clutter Picks Wellsville

Yogis Together On Seven, Duffy Against Potters

For better or worse, the Review Grid Yogis continue to stick together, with seven unanimous picks this week.

Co-leaders Chuck Campbell and Turk Pierce, along with Pete Weaver, have identical picks and form the consensus. Bob Duffy becomes the first Yogi of the year to go against the East Liverpool Potters, picking Archbishop Carroll. Ed (upset) Clutter tags Wellsville to upend Martins Ferry. Rose Nuzzo and Bob Shaffer go with Trafford to down Midland.

The unanimous choices are Beaver Local over United, Triadelphia over Oak Glen, East Palestine over Lisbon, Niles over Massillon, the Browns over the Steelers, Southern Cal over Miami (Fla.) and Penn State over West Virginia.

Sports Quiz

The quiz will appear in The Review every Thursday, along with the answers to the preceding week's quiz and the names of the people who got the most questions right.

The questions are not meant to be easy, and pertain in many cases to what is sometimes called "sports trivia." Please do not phone the Review with answers or questions about the quiz. Answers may be mailed in or dropped off at the Review before noon on Wednesdays.

Jack Vodrey staggered home the winner this week, getting only six questions competely correct. He knew Grover Cleveland Alexander, in 1916, was the last pitcher to win more than 32 games in a season; that Lou Brock in 1967 broke Honus Wagner's record for stolen bases in a World Series; that Moe Drabowsky was the Polish relief pitcher who had an outstanding stint in the 1966 series; that the 1960 Yankees, despite losing to the Pirates four games to three, hit .338 for an all-time series high; that the 1958 Yankees and the 1925 Pirates won the World Series after trailing three games to one; and that Joe Black, with the 1952 Dodgers, was the first Negro to win a World Series game.

Vodrey did not know that the all-time low series batting average was .142 by the 1966 Dodgers; that the last extra inning game was Oct. 12, 1964; that three series covered 13 days—1903, 1911 and 1962; and that five comic strips with sports figures as heroes (four were asked for) are Joe Palooka (boxing), Gil Thorp (high school coach), Ozark Ike (baseball), Sandy MacDivot (golf), and Joe and Asbestos (horse racing).

Allen Russell of RD 1, Hammondsville, had the right answers to two questions Vodrey missed, but had only four completely correct answers in all.

This weeks questions:

1. Who once went 0-21 in a World Series?
2. Who is remembered for coming in in relief and striking out Tony Lazzeri with bases loaded in a World Series?
3. What pitcher nicknamed "Three-Finger" won five World Series games?
4. What M.D. batted .439 in 17 World Series Games?
5. What was the largest crowd in World Series History?
6. When was the last time the series was played on four straight days?
7. What is the only city, beside New York, to have a "cross-town" World Series?
8. What individual once made eight errors in a World Series?
9. What infielder had two balls hit pepples and bounce over his head in a World Series game?
9. What infielder had two balls hit pebbles and bounce Series history?

San Diego St. Leads Poll, Fairmont 9, Akron 17

By The Associated Press

San Diego State continued to lead The Associated Press' small college football poll Wednesday while Weber State of Utah and New Mexico Highlands climbed into the Top Ten.

San Diego State collected 12 of 6 first-place votes after downing Montana State 34-22 for its third straight victory.

Weber State jumped from 12th to sixth with a 21-14 win over Northern Arizona. New Mexico Highlands rose from 13th to eighth by crushing Hiram Scott 72-0.

North Dakota State beat Northern Illinois 31-13 and moved up from third to second while Eastern Kentucky, runner-up last week, dropped to third despite a 23-20 triumph over East Tennessee.

The rest of the Top Ten consisted of Northern Michigan, fourth; Lenoir Rhyne, fifth; Texas A&I, seventh; Fairmont, W.Va., ninth, and Tennessee State, 10th.

In the Second Ten were Louisiana Tech, Texas-Arlington, Mortan State, Eastern Washington, Arkansas State, Western Kentucky, Akron, Tampa, Indiana, Pa., and Trinity, Tex.

The top 20, with first-place votes and total points, points awarded for first 15 picks on basis of 20-18-16-14-12-19-9-8-etc.

Gibson's Stuff 'Adequate,' Says Catcher McCarver

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Bob Gibson only had "adequate stuff" Wednesday in the first game of the World Series, Tim McCarver said, "but when Bob Gibson has adequate stuff, he strikes out 17 men—not that his stuff was ordinary."

Record-setting stuff is probably a better description. Gibson struck out 17 batters and broke the World Series strikeout record as the Cardinals whipped the Detroit Tigers 4-0. Sandy Koufax held the old record of 15 strikeouts, set in 1963 against the New York Yankees.

Gibson had no idea what he had accomplished by striking out Al Kaline in the ninth inning. "When you're pitching, you're too involved to know," Gibson said. "I don't imagine many guys know about it until it's all over. But the people were clapping and I didn't know why. Then Timmy walked out from behind the plate and pointed to the scoreboard. I was saying to myself 'get behind there and catch.' Finally I looked up there and saw it."

Both men agreed it wasn't Gibson's best game.

Earl Morrall Offensive NFL Player

By MIKE BRYSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Earl has been around the National Football League for 13 years—but generally as a backup quarterback.

And he appeared headed for a similar fate this season behind Johnny Unitas when acquired by the Baltimore Colts from the New York Giants in late August.

But Unitas popped the chronically sore elbow on his throwing arm in an exhibition Sept. 7—and all of a sudden the 34-year-old former Michigan State star was thrown into a starting role.

The Associated Press' NFL offensive player of the week has met the challenge admirably, leading the Colts to victories in their first three games and a share of the Coastal Division lead with Los Angeles.

Last Sunday, Earl connected on 14 of 22 passes for 189 yards and one touchdown in a 41-7 romp past Pittsburgh.

There were several other sparkling offensive performances in the league Sunday.

San Francisco's John Brodie, who has been bothered by a back injury, fired three touchdown passes against Atlanta and his 17 completions in 20 attempts matched the second highest game percentage in NFL history.

Los Angeles' Dick Bass carried 23 times for 124 yards—best in the league this season—and teammate Roman Gabriel riddled Cleveland with 17 of 34 passes for 194 yards and one touchdown.

Don Meredith of Dallas hit 15 of 22 for 231 yards and five touchdowns against Philadelphia, upping his season's total to 41 of 58 for 615 yards and seven TDs—best in the NFL.

Clutter Picks Wellsville

Yogis Together On Seven, Duffy Against Potters

For better or worse, the Review Grid Yogis continue to stick together, with seven unanimous picks this week.

Co-leaders Chuck Campbell and Turk Pierce, along with Pete Weaver, have identical picks and form the consensus. Bob Duffy becomes the first Yogi of the year to go against the East Liverpool Potters, picking Archbishop Carroll. Ed (upset) Clutter tags Wellsville to upend Martins Ferry. Rose Nuzzo and Bob Shaffer go with Trafford to down Midland.

The unanimous choices are Beaver Local over United, Triadelphia over Oak Glen, East Palestine over Lisbon, Niles over Massillon, the Browns over the Steelers, Southern Cal over Miami (Fla.) and Penn State over West Virginia.

Sports Quiz

The quiz will appear in The Review every Thursday, along with the answers to the preceding week's quiz and the names of the people who got the most questions right.

The questions are not meant to be easy, and pertain in many cases to what is sometimes called "sports trivia." Please do not phone the Review with answers or questions about the quiz. Answers may be mailed in or dropped off at the Review before noon on Wednesdays.

Jack Vodrey staggered home the winner this week, getting only six questions competely correct. He knew Grover Cleveland Alexander, in 1916, was the last pitcher to win more than 32 games in a season; that Lou Brock in 1967 broke Honus Wagner's record for stolen bases in a World Series; that Moe Drabowsky was the Polish relief pitcher who had an outstanding stint in the 1966 series; that the 1960 Yankees, despite losing to the Pirates four games to three, hit .338 for an all-time series high; that the 1958 Yankees and the 1925 Pirates won the World Series after trailing three games to one; and that Joe Black, with the 1952 Dodgers, was the first Negro to win a World Series game.

Vodrey did not know that the all-time low series batting average was .142 by the 1966 Dodgers; that the last extra inning game was Oct. 12, 1964; that three series covered 13 days—1903, 1911 and 1962; and that five comic strips with sports figures as heroes (four were asked for) are Joe Palooka (boxing), Gil Thorp (high school coach), Ozark Ike (baseball), Sandy MacDivot (golf), and Joe and Asbestos (horse racing).

Allen Russell of RD 1, Hammondsville, had the right answers to two questions Vodrey missed, but had only four completely correct answers in all.

This weeks questions:

1. Who once went 0-21 in a World Series?
2. Who is remembered for coming in in relief and striking out Tony Lazzeri with bases loaded in a World Series?
3. What pitcher nicknamed "Three-Finger" won five World Series games?
4. What M.D. batted .439 in 17 World Series Games?
5. What was the largest crowd in World Series History?
6. When was the last time the series was played on four straight days?
7. What is the only city, beside New York, to have a "cross-town" World Series?
8. What individual once made eight errors in a World Series?
9. What infielder had two balls hit pepples and bounce over his head in a World Series game?
9. What infielder had two balls hit pebbles and bounce Series history?

GRAVELY®

Come see the great new GRAVELY 424
IT'LL BE LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT!

Love that power! One look tells you—this is the compact tractor you've been looking for. That 10 HP engine is mounted in the back for ground-hugging, full-power traction.

Instant control. Move from forward to neutral to reverse without clutching. Pick your own ground speed to suit the job.

Love that all-gear drive! The Gravely 424 drive is all-gear-and-steel shaft . . . puts the power where the action is, into the attachments doing the job. There are no belts to slip or break . . . it's gear and steel all the way.

Love those attachments! Easy on. Easy off. Attachments mount quickly down under, up front, or behind. You're in command of any job . . . mowing, snow clearing, gardening and dozens more!

So easy to own! Come in and let's talk terms.

You'll love the GRAVELY 424. It's a fun machine!

GRAVELY®

Come see the great new GRAVELY 424
IT'LL BE LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT!

Love that power! One look tells you—this is the compact tractor you've been looking for. That 10 HP engine is mounted in the back for ground-hugging, full-power traction.

Instant control. Move from forward to neutral to reverse without clutching. Pick your own ground speed to suit the job.

Love that all-gear drive! The Gravely 424 drive is all-gear-and-steel shaft . . . puts the power where the action is, into the attachments doing the job. There are no belts to slip or break . . . it's gear and steel all the way.

Love those attachments! Easy on. Easy off. Attachments mount quickly down under, up front, or behind. You're in command of any job . . . mowing, snow clearing, gardening and dozens more!

So easy to own! Come in and let's talk terms.

You'll love the GRAVELY 424. It's a fun machine!

Junior Editors Quiz on FIBERGLASS

QUESTION: What makes fiberglass so strong and how is it used?

* * *

ANSWER: Fiberglass is a name for fibers of glass drawn out so fine they are flexible. When combined with a modern, plastic material, such as polyester-resin, an extremely strong substance can be produced. This can be used in many ways, one of which is in the making of small boats, which we illustrate. In (1), we see a bit of glass cloth made by weaving glass fibers together. In (2), workmen are laying sheets of such cloth inside a mould of a boat's shape — something like covering the inside of a bathtub. In (3), the plastic resin is being sprayed on so it thoroughly impregnates the cloth. After the resin has set hard, the workmen will lift a hard, rigid boat shell out of the mould (4). Sometimes the cloth is laid over a core which is the exact shape of the boat's hull. The fiberglass is pressed down over this. Such boat shells, when furnished with engines, seats and so on, make modern boats which are rot-proof, leak-proof and practical.

(Lee Heaton of Effie, Minn., wins a prize for this question. You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

Today In History

By The Associated Press

On this date:

In 1876, Johns Hopkins University opened in Baltimore.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1952, the British tested their first atomic bomb off the coast of Australia.

On this date:

In 1944, in World War II, U.S. troops cracked the Siegfried Line north of Aachen, Germany.

Five years ago: The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union announced agreement in principle on banning nuclear weapons from space vehicles in orbit.

One year ago: A Negro Ohio state representative, Carl B. Stokes, won the Democratic nomination for mayor of Cleveland.

Junior Editors Quiz on FIBERGLASS

QUESTION: What makes fiberglass so strong and how is it used?

* * *

ANSWER: Fiberglass is a name for fibers of glass drawn out so fine they are flexible. When combined with a modern, plastic material, such as polyester-resin, an extremely strong substance can be produced. This can be used in many ways, one of which is in the making of small boats, which we illustrate. In (1), we see a bit of glass cloth made by weaving glass fibers together. In (2), workmen are laying sheets of such cloth inside a mould of a boat's shape — something like covering the inside of a bathtub. In (3), the plastic resin is being sprayed on so it thoroughly impregnates the cloth. After the resin has set hard, the workmen will lift a hard, rigid boat shell out of the mould (4). Sometimes the cloth is laid over a core which is the exact shape of the boat's hull. The fiberglass is pressed down over this. Such boat shells, when furnished with engines, seats and so on, make modern boats which are rot-proof, leak-proof and practical.

(Lee Heaton of Effie, Minn., wins a prize for this question. You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)
